WASHINGTON, April 28 (INS)—Navy Secretary Frank Knox, 70, died today at his home in Washington. Death was due to a heart attack. He was stricken with a heart attack Sunday in Manchester, N. H., where he had gone to attend the funeral of J. A. Muehling, his partner of 40 years in the newspaper business. He suffered another severe attack Tuesday afternoon and was taken to his Washington home and placed under care of naval physicians. Another seizure early today weakened him and the end came later in the day.

Bar President Of Mail House

CHICAGO, April 28 (AP)—The Army barred Clement D. Ryan, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., as well as Sewell L. Avery, board chairman, from entering the administration building of the government-seized Chicago plant today.

Lieut. Gilbert Cattanach, one of the officers in charge of the soldier detail which took control of the plant Wednesday, said he had instructions from Wayne C. Taylor, Undersecretary of Commerce and government manager of Ward's, to prevent either Ryan or Avery from entering.

Shortly thereafter Taylor said the top officials of the great mercantile institution were barred from the premises "because they both have refused to co-operate with the government."

An exception, Taylor said, was that Avery or Ryan or both would be permitted to enter for a 10:30 a. m. shareholders meeting in order to formally call it to order, then adjourn it to noon at the Blackstone Hotel as arranged yesterday.

MUST THEN LEAVE

"The moment the meeting adjourns, if they are here, they will be asked to leave," Taylor said.

Yesterday Avery not only was barred but carried out bodily from the plant by two soldiers. The dispute stemmed from Montgomery Ward's refusal to extend a contract with the CIO union at the plant.

A temporary restraining order to prohibit Montgomery, Ward & Co., Avery and other officials from interfering with the government, issued late last night, will be attacked promptly today, the Ward counsel, Winston, Strawn and Shaw, disclosed.

Silas Strawn, head of the law firm, said Federal Judge William H. Holly, who issued the restrainer and set a hearing for 2 p. m., would be asked orally to dissolve the order.

The order, petitioned for late yesterday by Atty.-Gen. Biddle, ended two days of stout resistance by Sewell L. Avery, the company's board chairman, to government seizure of the plant.

WATCHED AS GAUGE

The government seizure, accomplished after two failures, was made yesterday, with the aid of federal troops and the night court proceedings followed a day of many developments in the case which is being watched as a gauge of the President's power to take over a business claiming non-war activity and a test of the War

Would Bar Draft Of Dads Over 30

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Sen. Wheeler (D.) of Montana drafted for introduction today an amendment to selective service legislation providing fathers over 30 on May 1 shall not be drafted into the armed services.

His amendment also provides in general demobilization the Army and Navy "shall follow a general policy" of sending fathers home ahead of single men.

Further, the proposal calls for drafting of all elegible men under 26 before calling fathers past that age.

The treatment Wheeler proposed for fathers would be "regardless of their occupations or the activities in which they may be engaged."

Wheeler's amendment defines fathers as men who were married prior to Dec. 7, 1941, have lived in a bona fide relationship with their families since and have a child under 18 years of age.

Young Wife Fights Off Soldier

Claiming she had to fight off an attempted assault by a man in an Army uniform today, as she was returning home from work, Mrs. Virginia Cunningham, 26, of 35 Guena Vista Park, Cambridge, today appealed to Cambridge police.

Mrs. Cunningham, who is married, said the soldier accosted her at Walden st. and Richdale ave. at 130 this morning. She said she was successful in fighting off his attempt to molest her.

Allies Continue To Rip Continent

By RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

Waves of Allied planes swarmed over invasion targets in Europe today after the RAF exploded an estimated 3500 tons of bombs on the aircraft and radar plants of Friedrichshafen and the railroads of northern France and Belgium.

The anxious Germans said they bombed masses of invasion vessels in harbors of western England and told of great shipping concentrations in southeast Britain.

American heavy and medium bombers flew over a wide area of France today, hacking at German air fields. One was 130 miles south of Paris at Avord.

In 24 shaking hours, more than 6000 American and British planes dropped perhaps 13,500 tons of bombs. In two weeks, the Allies had dropped 65,000 tons. The nonstop air invasion, dynamiting a path for Gen. Eisenhower's foot troops deployed in the tight little island of Britain, was in its 14th straight day.

The world had never seen anything like it.

RED, ITALIAN FRONTS QUIET

Russian and Italian fronts were ominously still.

Germans, Swedes and Turks guessed wildly when invasion would begin. A Swedish naval commentator said between May 2-17, when there is the least difference in high and low tides. One Berlin correspondent said May 6 or 7. Pravda of Moscow observed that "conditions are favorable now for powerful blows not only from the east but from the south and west."

Aneta, Dutch news agency, said German authorities in Holland were preparing to blast the great dykes which guard the entrance to the Zuider Zee and flood a huge area containing the populous cities of Rotterdam and Amsterdam.

Two Swedes, first to reach Sweden from Denmark since the Germans clamped tight control on travel between the two countries Monday, said the Danes at first thought the Germans were invading Sweden when the drastic measures were taken.

NAZI PLANES SCOUT BRITAIN

Nosy German planes scouted England by night looking for signs of invasion. Nazi troops moved nervously in Denmark, scaring Swedes. Probably not 50 men in all the world know when Eisenhower will spring from isolated Britain.

The British lost 36 planes last night. In the record daylight attacks yesterday, nine heavy bombers and nine lesser planes were lost and three Nazis were destroyed.

Chief rail targets of the night were Montzen in Belgium and Aulnoye in France. Mosquitos struck Stuttgart; other planes laid mines. Targets yesterday were military citadels, railroads, airdromes, road junctions and the like—mainly in northern France and Belgium where invasion threats are the most real. Weather again grounded the bulk of the Allied Mediterranean air fleets.

The Romanians chattered officially again about powerful tank-supported Russian attacks north of Iasi, where Red army penetrations were "sealed off or reduced."

The Russians said they sank seven more water carriers off Sevastopol, wiped out a regiment of 3000 men on the second Ukrainian front, and killed 400 in old Poland near Stanislawow.

Stockholm said the Germans were expecting a Russian offensive in the far north of Finland on the Salla sector.

Hollandia Conquest Complete

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Editor

The five-day conquest of the big Japanese air base at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, was marked "completed" today by Gen. MacArthur without a single show of strong enemy resistance, but the Japanese apparently don't intend to give up so easily in their faltering invasion of India.

Southeast Asia Allied headquarters reported heavy Allied reinforcements are pouring into the Kohima sector, advance point of the enemy's Indian drive, and Tokyo radio said Jap troops had launched a general offensive at Kohima. Allied and enemy planes were active.

In five days, MacArthur's forces on New Guinea have won three airdromes at Hollandia, within bombing range of the southern Philippine Islands, plus one at Aitape, 150 miles southeast, and another at Madang, 280 miles farther southeast.

In addition, MacArthur announced the fall of Alexishafen, 10 miles north of Madang.

ONLY 274 JAPS KILLED

Only 274 Japanese were killed and two dozen captured in the five-day campaign, MacArthur said. Three thousand veteran enemy marines had been drawn out of the Hollandia area by pre-invasion feints and probably more than 4000 fled to the hills rather than battle invading Americans.

The commanding general of the Allied troops at Aitape estimated 51,000 Japanese are trapped in a 200-mile stretch of coastal area southeast of Aitape.

Tokyo acknowledged Allied landings on Dutch New Guinea—six days after powerful American forces had gone ashore—and declared "since then successively they are increasing their military strength."

"Our forces in the vicinity and the air force intercepted them and are engaged in fighting," said an enemy broadcast.

Fifth Airforce planes, already operating from the Hollandia airdromes, staged a 60-ton raid on the four Wewak airfields 250 miles southeast of Hollandia. A Navy Liberator bomber sank 10 troop-laden enemy barges, two cargo ships, fired two fishing boats and shot down an enemy bomber 700 miles northwest of Hollandia.

CAROLINES BLASTED

Other Allied planes ranged far into the Central Pacific to blast Woleai atoll in the western Carolines and Truk and Satawan in the central Carolines.

Presaging mightier blows against Japan's Pacific defenses, MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz, Allied commander-in-chief in the Pacific, conferred prior to the Hollandia invasion to achieve "a maximum of co-operative effort" in the two commanders' converging operations.

A Chinese headquarters spokesman reported a Japanese drive on Loyang in northern Honan Province has been driven back 10 miles and another enemy column advancing on Loyang from the east has been halted.

Chinese also announced Japanese troops capture Ghenghsien April 22.

Great Throngs Pay Final Tribute to Loved Cardinal

By PAUL WHELTON AND JAMES F. McNANEY

On that altar of the God he served and to whom he consecrated his long and fruitful life, the spirit of William Cardinal O'Connell, Prince of the Church and dean of the Catholic hierarchy in America, was consigned today with solemn obsequies unprecedented in Boston.

CLERGY ENTERING CATHEDRAL OF HOLY CROSS FOR CARDINAL O'CONNELL SERVICES

Under the high arch of Holy Cross Cathedral, with every seat filled, high church dignitaries of many faiths assembled from far places of the earth, noted jurists and priminent officials of foreign, national, state and city governments came for the impressive three-hour ceremony which climaxed nearly a week of daily services.

And outside, bowed against the biting wind of a bright but cold April day, a chill hardly softened by brilliant sunlight, thousands of the laity, unable to witness the ceremonial of the pontifical funeral mass, followed it through loud speaker description conveyed to the streets.

Besides radios, in homes, in shops, hospitals and institutions, millions of others who had admired the departed prelate for his works, though few mght have known him, followed the services as they were broadcast.

MANY PRELATES THERE

Meanwhile, the archdiocese over which Cardinal O'Connell had presided for more than three decades, to build it into one of the foremost sees in Christendom, was in mourning for the great high priest who died last Saturday at the age of 81 and with nearly 60 years as a clergyman behind him.

Nearly two hours after the doors of the great Cathedral had been opened, a cardinal, four archbishops, 26 bishops, a Holy Abbot and a host of monsignori and priests took their places within the sanctuary and the long service began in final tribute to His Eminence.

Since Monday afternoon the mortal remains of the Cardinal had reclined in full ceremonial robes of his office, on a purple catafalque, and thousands had passed the bier to look—some for the first time and some for the last—upon the departed prelate.

LAST VIEW OF FACE

But today marked the end, the last time when any of his people could look upon his face.

Hereafter he will rest in the Gothic crypt which he had had constructed several years ago near the episcopal residence in Brighton.

Celebrant of today's mass was Archbishop Amleto G. Cicognani, personal representative of Pope Pius XII and Apostolic delegate at Washington.

Presiding at the mass from an especially constructed throne on the epistle side of the altar was the last living American member of the Sacred College, Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, who now succeeds Cardinal O'Connell as dean of the American hierarchy.

Other pre-eminent prelates within the sanctuary were Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, Archbishop Moses E. Kiley of Milwaukee, and Archbishop John A. Floersch of Louisville.

Assisting the archbishop-celebrant were the Rt. Rev. Richard J. Haberlin, D.D., vicar general of the archdiocese under Cardinal O'Connell, and other officers of the mass, too, were men with whom the late churchman worked since the day of their ordination.

The deacons of honor were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Splaine and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis J. Burke. The deacon was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jeremiah F. Minihan, chancellor of the archdiocese, and the sub-deacon, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis L. Phelan, former vicar general. The Rev. John J. Wright, D.D., the Cardinal's secretary, and the Rev. Walter D. Leach were masters of ceremony.

Music of the mass, "Messa da Requiem," was composed by Msgr. Lorenzo Perosi, director the Sistine Choir in Rome, who was an intimate friend of the dead Cardinal, and was sung by the St. John's

Card. Dougherty Extols Prelate

For many years to come, the fruits of the labor of Cardinal O'Connell as spiritual leader of millions of New Englanders will remain to enrich the life of this region, Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, America's sole remaining cardinal, said in his tribute to Boston's beloved prelate.

Cardinal Dougherty delivered his tribute shortly after arriving from Philadelphia to participate in today's final ceremonies of requiem for Cardinal O'Connell.

"It is a coincidence that the great friend, admirer and patron of Cardinal O'Connell, Pius X, died at the start of World War I and was spared its horrors," he said.

"Cardinal O'Connell saw some years of this great struggle, but was spared its duration, which will be God knows how long."

"The whole country, and especially New England, knows he was the leading factor in the unification of various nationalities, particularly in this area.

"I hope that a successor will be appointed who will follow in his footsteps."

Tomatoes, Corn, Beets Taken Off Ration Lists

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Tomatoes corn, beets, asparagus and four other vegetables will be added Sunday to the list of processed foods housewives may buy without ration stamps. May values announced today by the Office of Price Administration include a zero point rating for canned spinach, leafy vegetables, black-eye peas and garbanzo beans, a foreign dish ingredient.

The move making eight additional vegetables point-free was taken to clear store shelves for the new season's pack, now in production.

"The present low values on canned vegetables may be compared to an old-fashioned year-end bargain sale," said OPA Administrator Chester Bowles. "When the supply of 'point bargains' has disappeared, higher 'point prices' will have to be restored to spread new supplies evenly through the year."

Current values on No. 2 can sizes of the more important vegetables made point-free are: Tomatoes, 8 points; corn, 8 (vacuum packed, 6); asparagus, 10; beets, 3; leafy greens, 4, and spinach, 6.

A number of varieties of fruit butter as well as grape and tomato preserves and apple, grape, mint and plum jellies in one-pound containers are reduced two points to a new value of two. But raspberry and strawberry jams and preserves, in short supply, are increased to 16 points a pound jar, double the present value.

To slow the rapid movement of tomato catsup and chile sauce, the ration cost of these items goes from 23 points to 30 for a 14-ounce bottle, but spaghetti sauce, packaged with cheese, gets a value of three instead of six points for an eight-ounce jar.

Also listed on the May chart are point values for home canned foods that are sold. For containers over 14 ounces and including one pound-two ounces, points assigned are: Fruits, 10; juices, 2; vegetables, 1; spreads, 4, and special products, 12.

While City Mourns

Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, who said he had not seen the Cardinal since the coronation of Pope Pius XII in 1936, raced by air from Palm Beach to attend the ceremonies.

Judge John E. Swift was accompanied by his wife and two daughters, Rita and Nancy.

Three types of tickets were used. Green was used by those with reserved seats and salmon colored for women's groups. White was assigned to persons chosen as lay friends of the late prelate.

A detail of police officers, under Deputy Supt. James Hinchey, checked al tickets at the cathedral door.

The cathedral doors were opened at 8:30 because of the large throng waiting to enter.

The crowd outside the edifice was 10 deep as the dignitaries of church, state and city arrived.

Ten WACs from the First Service Command, led by Staff Sergt. Esther Bosqui attended in a group.

Military personnel wore mourning bands on their left arms.

Throughout the impressive rites, El trains on the Everett-Forest Hills line, slowed almost to a stop to reduce the noise as much as possible. Passengers crowded windows on the Cathedral side as the trains passed the edifice.

Washington st., Union Park st., and Malden st., were roped off and patrolmen were stationed at five-foot intervals.

Nearly 300 policemen were assigned to handle the great crowds at the Cathedral and along the cortege route. Included were 250 patrolmen, 20 sergeants, 14 mounted men, and four motorcycle officers.

Supt. of Police Edward W. Fallon and Capt. Leo Masauret led the solemn procession from the rectory to the Cathedral.

Millions Hear Radio Description of Rites

Millions of radio listeners heard the profoundly moving funeral services for Cardinal O'Connell today and listened to interpretations by the Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J. of Weston College, director of the Catholic Church Hour.

Obviously saddened and in a voice bespeaking his own emotion as well as that of the bowed throng in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Father Ahern explained the ceremony in a running commentary.

His voice came from a background of risinng and falling music as a prayer for mercy was sung by the St. John's Seminary Choir.

The interpretations came as the choral voices died away in traditional cadences: "With They favorite sheep, oh place me . . . Not among the ghosts efface me . . . With Thy right hand upraise me."

Fr. Ahern fell silent as the swell of reverent voice came again in supplication. Again, as the music softened: "King of majesty tremendous . . . Grant Thy gift of absolution . . . Rescue me from fires undying . . . Call me with Thy saints surrounded . . . Help me in my last condition . . . From the dust of earth returns."

The broadcast, first of its kind in the Catholic Church here, was over Station WNAC from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. At the outset all Boston radio stations went off the air for a minute of silence in tribute.

Stations WNAC, WBZ and WMEX broadcast programs of religious music, including hymns written by the Cardinal, for 15 minutes prior to opening of the services.

Criticize Priest For Russia Trip

SPRINGFIELD, April 8 (AP)—Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, pastor of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church, reported on his way to Russia to be the first American Roman Catholic priest to cross the Soviet borders since 1934, today was the target of criticism of Polish-American groups in America.

Joseph D. Wlodarczyk, national president of the Polish-American Labor Group, who came to Springfield from his home in Detroit, declared that the local priest "stood suspected of material motivation."

Declaring that Fr. Orlemanski to be "a man of divided interests and inconsistent in his views," a spokesman for the committee for the defense of the rights of Poland was also among Polish-Americans with adverse comment on the reported trip to Russia.

Love for Eire

Cardinal O'Connell's love for Ireland was stressed in the tribute paid to the dead Prince of the Church by Robert Brennan, Irish minister to the United States, as he arrived in Boston from Washington to attend today's services. The envoy said:

"I mourn the loss of a personal friend and a very great friend of my country, who on occasion showed himself so, in no uncertain manner. Personally, I am very sorry indeed at his death. He was a very kind friend of mine ever since I first came to the United States."

Plan Rites for Dad Who Dived for Son

AUBURN, N. H., April 28—Funeral services were planned today for Herman G. Farwell, 47, who lost his life when he plunged into a swollen brook to rescue his son, Herman, Jr., six, from drowning. The boy was pulled to safety by neighbor, Lloyd Gilbert, and his father's body was brought ashore by another son, Robert, 12.

Young Herman was revived by artificial respiration, but police worked with an inhalator for more than an hour in a vain effort to revive his father.

Senator's Name Linked In Capital Vice Probe

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—A suggestion that a senator's name was on the list of patrons of the Hopkins Institute, alleged "million-dollar call house," came in the trial of seven women accused of conspiracy to violate the Mann Act. With Mildred Powell Carter, self-identified former manager on the stand, M. Edward Buckley, Jr., defense attorney, asked about the "little black book" seized when the house was raided.

She identified various of the names, though the names themselves were not called, as local businessmen, visiting ball players and "a newspaper publisher in this city."

The names were listed, she added, because the men "didn't care."

"Many of the people whose names are in this book are prominent, aren't they?" Buckley asked.

The witness nodded, and said they were.

"And they didn't care whether their names were on record?"

"They didn't ask me not to. They didn't care."

"You think a United States Senator wouldn't care?"

Asst. United States Atty. John W. Fihelly objected and the question was dropped.

The witness went back over her testimony that she took two girls, one of them twice, to the hotel room of a Cleveland lawyer in 1942 and said she was mistaken in the identity of the girls involved.

Buckley asked if she made the same mistake in testifying before the grand jury, and she said she did.

The Hopkins Institute advertised as a massage establishment and Buckley opened a line of questioning apparently aimed at showing this was its actual business.

He asked about instances when massages were given and Miss Carter told of some, but said the massage was just a "front."

"When some one called who was a new patient," she testified, "I'd tell the girls to take something along just in case they did want a massage."

Solid 3-Power Tie Advised by Dewey

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, expressing concern whether our foreign policy will be carried out according to constitutional methods, says the United States, Britain, Russia and China must have a solid relationship to insure the peace.

Dewey, a front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination despite his statement that he is not a candidate, made an appearance before the nation's newspaper publishers last night the occasion for his most elaborate statement on foreign affairs.

The address brought varied comment.

Joseph R. Farrington, general manager of the Honolulu Star Bulletin and Republican delegate in Congress from Hawaii, expressed the views of many in an interview later when he said he didn't "think there is any question but that Gov. Dewey is outlining the basis on which he will become the Republican candidate for President."

From James A. Farley, former National Democratic chairman and present Democratic state chairman in New York who was among the 1300 present, came this comment: "It looked to me as if he didn't take a full cut at the ball."

Charles P. Manship, publisher of the Baton Rouge State-Times and Morning Advocate, introduced Dewey at the dinner of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishing Association as one who "by the simple expedient of keeping quiet and lying low, has become the leading candidate" for the Republican presidential nomination.

Dewey said the people were showing "great concern and uncertainty" over present foreign policy despite recent "excellent expressions" from Secretary of State Hull.

New Paper

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 28 (AP)—Newsprint may soon be made out of bamboo, which can be easily grown in the South.

The Herty Foundation laboratory announced that six months of experiments with bamboo showed that it met strength tests comparable to that of the highest testing chemical pulp made.

The species used in the foundation experiments grows to more than 60 feet in six weeks and is about eight inches in diameter. Goldenrod stems, crotalaria intermedia, ramie and bamboo all were tested in the half-year experiments.

Leslie Howard Left Estate of $251,000

LONDON, April 28 (AP)—Leslie Howard, British film star missing since last June 1 when the transport plane on which he was travelling from Lisbon to England messaged it was being attacked by German fighters and then lapsed into silence, left an estate of $251,000, it was disclosed today.

Start Evacuation Of Flood Area

By the Associated Press

Swollen dangerously high by the flooded Missouri and Illinois rivers, the Mississippi was tearing today at levees protecting Dupo and Harrisonville, Ill., forcing authorities to order evacuation of lowland residents.

The three rivers already have torn open levees and inundated more than 500,000 acres in 58 counties of Missouri and Illinois. To the west, the Arkansas river in Oklahoma had its third highest flood stages.

In Wichita, Kans., flood damage to homes from the same river was estimated by the Red Cross at more than $1,000,000. County Engineer Petticord said damage to bridges near Wichita totaled $147,000 more.

The floods have taken a toll of 24 lives in Illinois and Missouri. Six deaths in Missouri were on the Mississippi in the St. Louis area.

The Missouri river was expected to crest today at Jefferson City.

Three Flagship Planes Join Boston Service

With the return of three large flagship planes, which have been released by the government, increased schedules and the reinstatement of through-plane service will become effective May 1 on the New England route of American Airlines, W. Nelson Bump, local traffic manager, announced today.

Eight additional flights, including one all-cargo flight, will be made in and out of Boston daily and schedules will be increased elsewhere on the airline system, Bump said.

MacArthur's special message added:

"These include 13 Americans, seven Dutch, three Poles, one Australian, one Czechoslovakian an dthe remainder Germans. They were originally stationed at mission stations alon gthe north coast of New Guinea.

N. E. Car Slump Forced by War

PORTLAND, Me., April 28 — New England can expect last minute cancellations of entire carloads of sleeping accommodations because of the returning movement of wounded men from Atlantic ports to hospital and home, according to Henry F. McCarthy of Washington, assistant director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

He told a gathering of 300 railroad and highway officials here that passenger facilities along the Atlantic seaboard are going to be extremely tight because "bluntly as I can make it, we are going to insure the transportation of returning wounded personnel.

Boston Hostile To 4th Term

Signs that the majority of Boston citizens who cast votes in Tuesday's primary election disapprove an extension of President Roosevelt's term to 16 years mounted today, as additional official returns from city wards were filed at the State House.

Tabulation of the voting for delegates to the Democratic national convention in 14 of the 22 wards gave decisive leads to Ex-Gov. Joseph B. Ely, outspoken foe of the fourth term, and to Sen. David I. Walsh and Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, who are not regarded as favorable to the Administration.

They led over such fourth term advocates as Cong. John W. McCormack, State Democratic Chairman William E. Burke, Ex-Cong. Joseph E. Casey and Mayor Tobin.

The offer is made by the Bronx Zoo. It needs a man who can milk cows.

True to Blind

TAMPA, Fla., April 28 (AP)—Louie, the seeing-eye dog that refused food after his blind master, Grover Smith, drowned last week, has resumed eating but, says Mrs. Smith, "he still meets every automobile that drives up."

Mrs. Smith said the dog has lost weight but appears healthy.

Smith's family learned yesterday the dog was going to stay with them. The seeing-eye institution notified them Louie, six years old, probably could not be trained to accompany another master.

Vets' Bill Headed for House

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 28—Congress saw increasing indications today that the "G-I bill of rights" may soon fight its way out of Rep. John E. Rankin's committee on veterans' legislation and be reported on the floor of the House by Monday or Tuesday.

Cong. Rankin was visibly yielding to the most intensive demand that has supported any legislation in recent history and he said:

"We are driving to complete the bill this week and I think that we may be able to do so."

However, a committee dispute over the unemployment compensation provision of the measure and an appropriation bill on the floor of the House prolonged the delay in considering the long-awaited "bill of rights."

These snags furnished backers of the measure with new reason to be unwilling to take victory for granted. Forces in and out of Congress are pressing their campaign for prompt passage of the legislative program so vital to the well-being and rehabilitation of discharged service men and women.

One of many proofs of how new support is rallying to aid the bill was provided this noon when leaders of the Texas congressional delegation, largest of all the delegations from the South, traditional Democratic Party stronghold, invited Texas American Legion representatives to meet them at luncheon in the Capitol to map immediate action for the bill.

The meeting, with Cong. Wright Patman as host, was considered to be of special significance, since it demonstrated that the southern states are far from backing Rankin in his delaying tactics.

Textile Pay Rise Called War Need

Unless New England textile workers are allowed higher pay, mills working on vital government contracts will face a critical manpower shortage as employes seek higher wages in other industries, CIO spokesmen declared today at a War Labor Board panel hearing.

Officials of the Textile Workers Union of America, CIO affiliate, seek a wage boost in 34 mills employing more than 30,000 workers in the northeast.

The hearing, being held at the Hotel Bradford, will continue through tomorrow, when labor's side of the discussion is expected to be completed. The panel will review industry's arguments at a similar three-day hearing, to start May 8.

Wage Controls Cut In Low Group Urged

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Abandonment of federal wage controls over incomes up to $150 a month for single workers and $200 for family heads was urged today by a special Senate committee which pictured 20,000,000 persons in white collar and low income groups as living now "between subsistence and privation."

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Pepper (D.) of Florida recommended that the War Labor Board relax the Little Steel levels without WLB approval.

In addition, the group called for increased funds for the Office of Price Administration to enforce more rigid price controls and check "the present inflationary trend."

Listing clerks, teachers, stenographers, local government employes, pensioners and veterans' dependents as among those hardest hit by increased living costs, the report said that for them "inflation has already begun."

"The OPA has done good work by keeping prices within some kind of limits, especially during the last year, but it has been denied the funds and personnel needed to do its job effectively," the report said. "The result has been a slow, creeping inflation which, unless it is checked, carries with it the promise of future chaos."

Testimony taken during two months of hearings showed that the low income groups "dwell constantly in a borderland between subsistence and privation, where even the utmost thrift and caution do not suffice to make ends meet," the subcommittee found, adding:

The report held that a $50 a week salary for a family head left only a "very narrow margin of living" under present price conditions, whereas millions are subsisting on incomes at or near half that level.

As examples, the subcommittee cited Social Security board figures showing more than 2,000,000 local government employes averaged $28.85 weekly in October, 1943; 4,500,000 so-called 'white collar' workers were paid $28.69 in 1943; over 1,000,000 teachers received less than $1,550 for the 1942-43 school year, and that 4,500,000 recipients of old age and dependency awards received far less, an average of $26.46 monthly in the case of old age aid.

$11,000 Voted Youth Centers

As a result of the success of Massachusetts Youth Committee centers which have been established in school houses throughout the city, the movement to fight wartime juvenile delinquency will be extended by means of an additional $11,000 appropriation voted by the school committee.

School committeemen allowed the extra sum, which raises to $73,198 the total appropriation of funds for new youth activities, during a conference over budget items.

Members voted to grant attendance supervisors $300 a year for gas and auto upkeep in addition to salary. The sum of $4000 was inserted to finance an outdoor physical education and $1310 was allowed for a boxing instructor.

Tito's Forces Take Another Town

LONDON, April 28 (INS)—Yugoslav Partisans, Marshal Tito announced today, have captured the town of Sveti Ivan Zelina, 15 miles northeast of the German-held Croatian capital of Zagreb.

The guerrillas also occupied the railroad center of Ivanec, a few miles from the Hungarian frontier.

See Spain Cut Ore to Nazis

LONDON, April 28 (AP)—Britain and the United States were reported here today to be approaching a compromise with Spain calling for a possible 90 per cent reduction in Spanish shipments of war-important wolfram (tungsten) ore to Germany.

The Americans had sought a complete shutdown of exports of the ore, but the British were said to have taken the position it was better to have part of a cake than none.

An agreement on the question of the ore has been the major point delaying completion of the Allied negotiations with Spain.

Adams Heads Community Fund

Charles Francis Adams today began his 10th successive year as president of the Greater Boston Community Fund. He was re-elected to the post at the joint annual meeting of the Fund with the Greater Boston Community Council. Robert F. Bradford was named the new council president to succeed Henry R. Guild

Two prominent civic leaders, active for many years in the fund, were honored. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert P. Barry, one of the original incorporators of the fund in 1935, was elected first honorary member for "unselfish service to the public welfare."

Joseph T. Walker, Jr., was given a formal vote of thanks for giving to the utmost of his ability that all organizations included in the campaign might prosper in their work for human welfare.

Henry A. Laughlin, who succeeded Mr. Walker as campaign chairman, announced Nov. 9 to 29 were the tentative dates for the fall campaign for 1945 needs of the community fund and war-related services.

World Policy Quiz Met by Bricker

COLUMBUS, O., April 28 (AP) — Gov. John W. Bricker, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, answered in a nation-wide radio interview seven of the nine questions on national and international affairs which were put to Wendell L. Willkie by Missouri Republican leaders several months ago.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., Mutual Broadcasting System radio commentator, who conducted the interview, said the questions were those Willkie declined to answer, terming them "so ambiguous as to defy understanding."

Asked if he believed the United States should become a member of a supra-national state, Bricker replied there should be no "central world authority dominating our destiny," adding that "apparently no other nation wants it, either."

The question of whether the U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force should be placed under control of a world state brought a vigorous denial from Bricker, who asserted the United States "must keep her military force adequate to our own security in the air, on the land and on the sea, subject to our own control."

Replying to the question as to whether there should be absolute freedom of international trade, the governor said he did not believe in it for the reason that living standards vary in different parts of the world, and that opening up our markets to trade based on suppressed labor and impoverished living conditions would lower the living standards of Americans.

Maine Man Jailed On Murder Charge

DEXTER, Me., April 28—Bert Badger, 40, today was being held without bail on a murder charge pending a probe in September by the Penobscot County grand jury of the death of William L. Wade, 58.

Wade died in a Bangor hospital of head injuries and Badger pleaded not guilty when arraigned on the murder charge.

N. E. Hotel Boom In '44 Predicted

Predictions of another successful season in New England summer resorts, despite wartime travel restrictions and food shortages, were made today as hotel men convened at the Hotel Statler for the second day's sessions of the 20th annual exposition of the N. E. Hotel and Restaurant Ass'n.

Reservations sufficient to assure a good season have already been received by most hotels, it was reported. The proprietors said their guests will arrive by train and spend their vacation at one place, rather than travel around from one hotel to another.

A low-point, no-point food cooking demonstration by noted chefs was scheduled as a feature of today's meeting, while Pres. Glenwood J. Sherrard of the American Hotel Assn. and Lawrence J. Brosnahan, assistant New England administrator of the OPA, were listed as principal speakers.

Pres. George R. LeSauvage of the National Restaurant Assn. told the conference that 30,000,000 persons are now eating every day in restaurants, hotels and industrial plant dining rooms and from this huge total, surprisingly few complaints are being received concerning wartime changes in menus.

Rites for Parker Set Tomorrow

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m., for Prof. Theodore B. Parker, 54, head of the civil engineering department at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and former chief engineer of the Tennessee Valley Authority under whose direction the huge Norris and Wheeler dams were completed.

His death at his home in Woodlawn ave., Wellesley, followed a long illness. He had resigned his TVA post n July, 1943, to accept his duties at MIT.

He is survived by his widow, the former Estelle Peabody of Wellesley, a son, Capt. Franklin P. Parker, now serving with the Army Engineers in the Far East, and a daughter, Nancy, a student at Wellesley College.

El Profit $84,875

Boston Elevated railroad operations last month produced a net profit of $84,875 as compared with $156,673 for March of 1943, according to President Edward Dana. Higher costs of materials and an increase in total wages paid acounted for the cut in profit, he said.

"NO MORE TROUBLE WITH CONSTIPATION!"

Says Long-Time Sufferer Who Tried Laxative Cereal!

If you, too, are disappointed with pills and purgatives, be sure to read this unsolicited letter!

"For several years I was afflicted with common constipation. I tried various remedies, but got only temporary relief. Several months ago, I started eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN each morning, drinking water freely through the day. I have since never had the slightest trouble with constipation. My gratitude to KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN." Mr. H. M. Riley, 11 E. Division Street, Chicago, Ill.

Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation—lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet — because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements! They work by helping the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. Doesn't "sweep you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food.

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't cheer its welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

4 Leominster Firemen Hurt in Blaze Gaining

LEOMINSTER, April 28—Overcome by smoke while battling a fire which swept the three-story wooden building of the Standard-Pyroxoloid Corp., causing several thousand dollars' damage, four firemen were recovering today.

Heavy smoke caused the firefighters to don gas masks and forced a score of workers to flee the building. The overcome firemen were Bernard Martin, Royal Turner, Edward Malone and James Skinner.

3 to Face Trial In Taunton Case

TAUNTON, April 28 — Asst. Attys.-Gen. Ralph V. Rogers and Fred W. Fisher announced today that trial of County Commr. Timothy A. Lovett, Valmore J. Archambault of Fairhaven, and James Kepply of Fall River, will start tomorrow in Superior Court on indictments charging they conspired to defraud Bristol County through sale of meats and provisions.

The new case was scheduled after Judge Harold P. Williams ordered a directed verdict for Lovett and Alphonse L. Barrette of Fall River on charges of conspiracy to overcharge the county for purchase of building equipment.

The directed verdict brought a sudden end to the second trial called at the special session which convened a week ago last Monday. The session was requested by the attorney-general for hearing of alleged Bristol County scandal cases.

labor Board's ability to enforce its directives.

Highlighting the day's events was the forcible ejection of Avery, the 69-year-old chief executive, from his office. His removal by two soldiers was ordered by Biddle later, the Attorney-General said, Avery refused to co-operate with government officials and maintained he still was the boss.

Judge Holly's order not only enjoined interference by company officials but called upon them to surrender company records, which had been asked by Biddle in his petition for the injunction. He set a hearing for 2 p. m. today on the dissolution, modification or extension of the order.

COMES AS SURPRISE

The night court session came as a surprise, the proceedings being unofficially scheduled for today. None of the company officials or counsel was present upon issuance of the order, which directs the company to make available corporate records to the government director, Wayne C. Taylor, assistant secretary of commerce.

Judge Holly, leaving his chambers a few minutes after Biddle, told reporters, "Oh, I wouldn't issue that kind of an order without giving them (Ward's) a chance to be heard." Company attorneys or officials were not immediately available for comment on the issuance of the order.

Judge Holly explained that the night session was held because "there was danger of irreparable injury being caused to the plaintiff (Government) . . . by virtue of the fact that the defendants have interfered and are threatening to continue to interfere with the possession and operation" of the plants.

Earlier, Atty. Silas H. Strawn of the law firm representing the company said injunction proceedings would be filed shortly demanding that government operation of the plant be halted and federal officials enjoined from entering the properties.

WASHINGTON, April 28 (INS)—Sen. Styles Brdiges (R.) of New Hampshire, planned to ask the Senate Military Affairs committee today to determine whether President Roosevelt went beyond the limit of the law in taking over the Chicago properties of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Adding his voice to Congressional demands for an investigation of the government's seizure of the mail order firm, Bridges said he would ask the committee to summon Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle to answer "under what provision of the law" the President is allowed to take over a business not engaged in war production.

Bridges, ranking member of the Military Committee, declared "This is a thing of far-reaching import and if the President has the right to take a firm like Wards, he could reach out and take over any corner drug store or grocery store in the country."

"I want to see determined what authority the President has for going ahead with this and whether he has not gone beyond the limit of the law," Bridges added.

Meanwhile, Sen. Byrd, (D.) of Virginia, planned to ask the War Labor Board to submit a complete report of the Ward case to the Senate and Rep. Dewey (R.) of Illinois, presented a House resolution for appointment of a special seven-man committee to investigate.

Opposition arose to the House inquiry, however, when Rep. Sabath (D.) of Illinois, chairman of the Rules Committee, said he would not give the Dewey proposal priority over other pending matters.

The battle also veered into the Washington courts when Ward attorneys protested against further delay by the government in answering suits to enjoin War Production Board orders.

In Congress Republicans in general assailed the Administration's action in sending troops into Montgomery Ward, while Democrats, for the most part, remained silent.

A bloc of some 16 Illinois GOP members issued a joint demand for passage of the Dewey investigation resolution. They charged that the company seizure threatens "peaceful continuation of private business," and declared the act was "illegal, unjustified and arbitrary."

Why, Daddy!

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 28 (AP)—U. S. Comr. Eddy reported Charles T. (Daddy) Kline, 83-year-old lodger at a Fairmont mission home, was being held in jail on a charge of counterfeiting nickels from scrap tin, lead and bottle tops.

Eddy said Kline pleaded innocent and was held in $2000 for the federal grand jury.

A treasury agent testified the aged man used a mixture of baking soda and other simple ingredients to make a coin mould.

Twins Share School Honors

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., April 28 (INS)—Dorothy and Doris Brewer, twin sisters, are as alike in their intellectual accomplishments as they are in physical characteristics, and so both were chosen today as co-valedictorians of the East Hampton, Ct., High School senior class.

This unprecedented situation in Connecticut education was reported by Principal John Hangen, who said that during their four-year course the twins' scholastic averages varied little if any. Dorothy is class president and Doris is president of a national honor society and co-editor of the school year book.

Argentine Bans Italian Paper

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune, in a copyright story from Montevideo, said today the Argentine government had closed the Italian language Buenos Aires newspaper, "Italia Libera"—the third pro-United Nations paper to be shut down in Argentina within a week.

Navy Opposes Unified Plan

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The Navy flatly opposed today immediate action to consolidate the Army, Navy and air forces into a single department of war.

Its views, given to the House committee on postwar military policy, were stated by Undersecretary Forrestal. He said:

"The position of the Navy is that the question should be approached by detailed examination with the conclusion to be reached at the end of such an examination rather than acting upon the assumption that the case is already established. I don't believe this."

Earlier this week, War Secretary Stimson endorsed the creation of a single department for the armed forces.

Tobin Pay Rises To Cost $24,800

Mayor Tobin's executive order assuring 273 firemen and 372 policemen of reaching their salary maximums in three years instead of the regular five-year-period, will cost the city approximately $24,800, Budget Commr. Herman L. Bush disclosed today.

Each employe receiving less than the maximum salary of $2300 a year shall receive on his anniversary date—the date on which he entered the department—an increment of $200 instead of $100, as before, until his maximum amount shall be reached.

Those receiving the initial entrance salary of $1800 a year will receive $2000 at the end of this year, instead of $1900. The new scale involves $13,400 for the police department and $11,254 for the fire department.

Chamber Gets Half-Ton Paper

As officials completed plans to start a drive Monday to salvage critically needed paper from Boston business office files, the Boston Chamber of Commerce announced today that a pre-campaign house cleaning of its own offices had produced more than a half-ton of paper.

George C. Wiswell, committee chairman, announced that collection trucks, representing the Advertising Club of Boston, which is sponsoring the drive in co-operation with the Boston Salvage Committee and the War Production Board, will canvass a six-street sector in the downtown area Monday.

The regular waste paper collection schedule for the week is: Today, Newton and Brookline; tomorrow, Dover; Sunday, Waltham, south side, Lynnfield and Lynnfield Center.

Meanwhile, in Cambridge, Boy Scouts made salvage history by winding up a three-day campaign with enough paper to fill more than 10 railroad cars. About 450 scouts collected throughout the city in 10 trucks under the direction of George Disbrow, scout executive, and Frank Oeschger, assistant scout executive.

Cabbage, Broccoli Ready to Be Set Out

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head, Market Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and director of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.)

Such crops as lettuce, cabbage and broccoli are now ready to be set in Victory Gardens and this work should be started without delay, provided the soil is not too wet from the rainy spell. Plants may be obtained from various sources but the best bet is to get them from your local plant grower or market gardener.

Be sure that the plants are hardened or ready to stand our outdoor conditions before setting in the garden. Then set them in straight rows properly spaced.

Lettuce should be set 8 to 12 inches, depending on variety. Cabbage 15 to 18 inches, and broccoli 18 to 24 inches.

In handling these plants make every effort to leave as much soil on the roots as possible. Do not expose the roots to the sun or air, and set them in the row at the proper depth. Be careful not to set lettuce too deep, or the plant will rot.

Other plants can usually be set a little deeper than they were in the flat or bed. The soil should be firm around the roots, and for home gardeners a good soaking of water is good insurance.

PLANT SPINACH NOW

Early greens are a valuable spring crop, and spinach is the most widely used. If you plan to grow spinach, it should be planted at once. It is a cool weather crop. Spinach planted now will mature about the middle of June, and the land can be used for succession crops.

For best results it should be planted in shallow drills and the seed covered about ½ inch. Seed should be planted at the rate of about 1 ounce to a 100-foot row or about 15 seeds to the foot.

The best varieties for early planting are Long Standing Bloomsdale, Viking and Summer Savoy. This crop will only give good results for early summer greens. Follow later with planting of swiss chard or beets for summer greens.

Defendant's Illness Puts Off Spy Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The illness of a defendant, James True, yesterday caused the adjournment until Monday of the federal court trial of 30 persons charged with seditious conspiracy. True, who is 66 years old, failed to appear in court and Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher sent Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, a deputy coroner, to examine him.

Eulogy by Bishop Cushing

Drawing upon the inspired words of the Old T
mass today, Bishop Richard J. Cushing found eternal p

This expression of adoration and reverence c ter XLV:16, 17. Following is full text of the eulogy:

Behold a great priest. He whose mortal remains lie here before the altar of this Cathedral, whose soul has gone forth attended by our prayers and the prayers of millions all over the world, could ask for his extraordinary endowments and surpassing achievements no more satisfying recognition. That was his ambition, that was his triumph—to be a great priest.

Sixty years ago, when the sublime dignity of the priesthood was conferred upon him, he harnessed the leaping energies of a keen mind and powerful personality for the race to his goal—to full accomplishment of his vocation. Never a moment did he loosen the rein or slacken the pace till the day came when he could say with St. Paul, "I have finished the course."

The eleven years of his parish service saw him crowding his scant hours of leisure with earnest study. As Rector of the North American College in Rome, he pursued perfection in new fields, administration, diplomacy, a wider experience of men and affairs. The famous Embassy to Japan he executed with the same unbending concentration, learning at every step and in the end achieving a brilliant success.

YEARS IN ROME

After years of distinguished work in Rome, amid the deep currents of international relations, in contact with the high and the humble of many lands while ever close to the heart of Christendom, he returned to America, to preside first over the Diocese of Portland and then over his native Archdiocese of Boston. Here he found a complete contrast—a society economic in its structure and its standards, a people scarcely at all concerned with world politics, provincial in outlook, a religious frontier where the concept of Christendom was unknown and diverse groups held their particular beliefs, each hidden behind its own stockade of exclusiveness.

He had known this frontier of old. He could measure the gains of his own garrison. Aware of the approaching crisis that would tax its strength, he felt that the time had come to organize it on a larger and permanent basis, and to reveal the fact of world-wide Christianity, the dignity of the Spouse of Christ. The undertaking was vast and beset with difficulties; the manner of its doing had to be chosen; the man who saw the vision had to win others to it in his own way. Not always understood, even by his own, but always steady of purpose and strong of execution, he has been justified by the severe tests of eventful years.

His enlightened foresight and vigorous leadership made this Archdiocese one of the foremost sees in Christendom. To him, to the clergy, to the religious and people he had organized, Pope Pius X accorded the highest of honors by raising him to the exalted position of Prince of the Church. As an administrator, the new Cardinal had few equals. When he delegated authority, he placed absolute confidence in the men of his choice. Under his direction as a spiritual leader, under his guidance and inspiration as a moulder and ruler of men, priests rose to every opportunity and shared with him in the extraordinary growth of the Archdiocese.

DIOCESE GROWTH

To single out special phases of that growth would be an impossible task. Fortunately he himself, when he reached the Biblical age of three score and ten, listed what he considered his three greatest accomplishments: the founding of more than a hundred new parishes, the reorganization of the Diocesan Seminary and, the establishment of the diocese on a strong financial basis—surely, three worthy and lasting memorials. The one hundred and more new parishes have dotted this great center of Catholicity with as many churches where dwells the King of Kings, awaiting with bountiful gifts the homage of those who love Him. The development of the Diocesan Seminary assures a continuance of the highest ideals of the priesthood, and the solid financial structure of the archdiocese survived without the slightest shock the greatest depression in the nation's history. We may truthfully say: "If you seek his monuments, look around."

Look around! The fruits of his labors multiply to our gaze. In the churches he planned, how many will find the abiding solace of religion! At the altars he raised, how many will gain grace and eternal salvation! In the schools he sanctioned, how many will imbibe the true philosophy of life! In the hospitals, homes, and charitable institutions he fostered, how many will attain health and refuge and blessed peace! And from the devoted priests of God whom he trained or ordained—as well as from the hundreds he helped to ordination in distant mission lands—how many souls will receive the heavenly mysteries and life everlasting!

"Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God."

The cause of God was his consuming passion, and he defended that cause with life-long devotion and singleness of purpose, with a rare freedom from human respect, and we dare add, with the fighting spirit of a crusader. He attacked evils and wrongs, not persons; he hated the sin, but always helped the sinner. And his charity to those who erred knew no bounds. To one to whom nature had given a rock-like resoluteness and a certain stubborn inflexibility of character, and who was by temperament strong, vehement, commanding, that is no small tribute. This great zeal for the cause of God and for the preaching of His Gospel was not merely diocesan nor even national. It reached out into every land, so that today in every corner of the vast mission fields of the world his name is blessed. Missionaries are keeping his memory sacred before the crude altars of jungle chapels and in the stately sanctuaries of Oriental cathedrals. "Remember," he frequently admonished me, "this is God's work, and keep it in God's Hands."

KEY TO HIS LIFE

God's work is the salvation and sanctification of souls everywhere, the work of universal charity. Universal charity is, therefore, the key to the life of William Cardinal O'Connell. It was the concept he had formed of the priest as universal in charity and absolutely detached in judgment that kept him deliberately and consistently outside of all secular concerns, outside of every partisan movement, every controversy, even ecclesiastical, save only when the spiritual welfare of the community seemed to call for a pronouncement. He did much—more than the world could know—to remove the sources of injustice, to replace with a spirit of mutual understanding and friendliness the old and unwholesome divisions among the people of New England. What our first bishop, John de Cheverus, had endured with the courage and wise forbearance of a pioneer, this great successor of his, taking up the crozier nearly a century later, attacked with no less courage, but with the power and skill of a diplomat. The sturdy character, the ideals and accomplishments of the Puritan and Pilgrim Fathers, he admired. Their resentment and hostility toward other races and religions he understood. Giving on both sides had succeed gulf, he rest undone in time the gul closed.

Oh how exacting, how all-absorbing, how supreme is that spiritual life to which the priest, any priest, commits himself. Sanctus — Sanctus — Sanctus. Holy—Holy—Holy—that is the Priesthood of Christ. His Eminence expressed it at the close of his autobiography in words that echo the utterance of St. Augustine, and across the centuries identify our present-day priesthood with his:

"The life of the spirit, unquenchable, can never be completely content until the soul has found repose in the possession of God."

There speaks even now the wisdom of our late Cardinal Archbishop. He knew with the certainty gained from a lifetime of experience with the souls of men that the true priest can never in this life find rest. This lesson he leaves us as a legacy. We have no right to bury it and forget it. All the rest of the wealth he has left us—charitable institutions, Christian education, financial security, churches, religious communities, lay societies, mutual trust, peace, and a love for the Holy See and the Sovereign Pontiff, these depend for their welfare and progress upon that one priceless legacy, the secret of his method — his spirit never rested.

NATURE'S GIFT

Well did he change his family motto—"Victor in ardua," triumphant over difficulties, to the humble and even more energetic "Vigor in ardua," strength amid difficulties. For victory won means fresh combats ahead, but strength is the source and the sword of every new accomplishment

He possessed extraordinary strength. Even physically he towered among men. That was nature's gift to him. Intelligence shone on his wide brow. Large, deep set, scrutinizing eyes bore witness to his penetrating mind. Intellectually he also excelled. His powerful pen constantly flashed out in defense of Christian Faith and morality. That was the result of his own efforts in enriching his mind and training his intellectual powers. Spiritually he was irresistible. That was the grace of God for which he prayed and which he employed to the best advantage. From the very record of his years he was unique. Eighty-five years a Christian, 60 years a priest, 42 years a bishop, 32 years a Cardinal. Here, indeed, was an illustrious man, "a great priest who in his days pleased God."

Not every priest can be physically powerful, not every priest can be an intellectual giant, not every priest is called to a long life of high ecclesiastical honors, but the grace of God is for all of us and the vocation to the priesthood means the unresting activity of the soul. We are forever grateful to our venerable and beloved Cardinal Archbishop for this priestly bequest: "The life of the spirit, unquenchable, can never be completely content until the soul has found repose in the possession of God."

SPIRIT CONTENT

Today the life of his spirit, unquenchable, is at last content. His soul has found repose in the possession of God. He has attained his ultimate goal. He has won the only crown he ever really prized and sought—the crown of God's glory. His death, never to be forgotten by his loved ones, was an inspiring testimony of faith. He passed from this life blessing his priests and people and kissing a crucifix that he had cherished from his student days in Rome. The prayers of his flock were generously answered: God gave to our Good Shepherd a beautiful Christian death.

Here before the altar of the God he loved, and to whom he great talents, in the Cathedral Church of the Archdiocese he raised to such prominence, lie his mortal remains. But to his diocese, his country, his Church, he is not dead, he still lives.

In the words of the poet:

Were a star quenched on high
For years would its light
Still streaming downward from the sky
Fall on our mortal sight.

So when a great man dies
For years beyond our ken
The light he leaves behind him lies
Upon the paths of men.

So the life work of our beloved Shepherd is not yet done. In a broader sense it is only beginning. He was, above all else, the apostle, who taught the word and law of God to his fellow-men, that the noble and the eternal in our nature might be nourished, that the ties that bind us to God might be strengthened.

Such a teacher never dies. In lesson and example, in service and remembrance, he is as truly with us today as he was before he passed beyond the ivory gates of sleep. The light of his long life is only a brief candle in comparison with the enduring light of the inspiration he has bequeathed to us. Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow we shall be enriched and ennobled by the abiding influence of his myriad of lasting works.

BORN FEAST DAY

Vital in his loyal love of God was his devotion to the Blessed Mother of God. His birthday was December the eighth, the Feast Day of Her Immaculate Conception, and deep devotion to her marked his entire life. Deep devotion also to his own beloved mother, who, like so many a saintly mother, by her love and sacrifices enabled her son to become a priest of God. At her feet, as long as she lived, he laid his scholastic trophies and priestly honors as an act of love and gratitude for her inspiration and help.

There was another beloved Mother who claimed his life-long unbroken devotion — Our Holy Mother Church. To Her, in deepest love and reverence during his priesthood of 60 years, he gave his all in arduous labors that her holy influence and her divine message might be brought to all mankind.

William Cardinal O'Connell is no more. "Behold a great high priest, who in his days pleased God, and was found just, and in the time of wrath he was made a reconciliation." In a spirit of Christian resignation, to the will of Almighty God, bear away his body, lay it reverently in its final resting place on the grounds of our Diocesan Seminary where every future priest of the Archdiocese of Boston, and where, at every annual retreat we, the priests whom he has left behind, may breath a golden Ave Maria in honor of our Immaculate Mother, the Queen of the Clergy, that our departed Shepherd may be joined in eternal fellowship with the apostles of Holy Mother Church forever and ever.

Then and only then can his great soul rest, for "the life of the spirit, unquenchable, can never be completely content until the soul has found repose in the possession of God." This is the legacy bequeathed to us by a "great priest," His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, who in his days pleased God, and was found just, and in the time of wrath was made a reconciliation."

May he rest in eternal peace Amen.

Our Pacific Lesson

THE REPORT on American naval operations in the early years of this great war, made by Admiral Ernest J. King, probably had nothing in it MORE IMPORTANT than this cryptic observation:

"We appear to have had an object lesson to the effect that if we are to HAVE outlying possessions we must be prepared to DEFEND them."

It was not our losses at Pearl Harbor which lost us the Philippines, said Admiral King. That was surely a crippling defeat, he freely acknowledges.

"Had we not suffered those losses, however," he frankly discloses, "our fleet COULD NOT HAVE PROCEEDED TO MANILA as many people supposed and there relieved our hard-pressed forces.

"Such an undertaking at that time, WITH THE MEANS AT HAND to carry it out, would have been disastrous."

It would have been disastrous because we were not PREPARED to defend the Philippines.

We had not FORTIFIED the Philippines.

We did not have an adequate garrison of trained troops in the Philippines.

We had started too late to develop a program of national defense based on Filipino manpower and resources.

There was only a smattering of efficient military aviation in the Philippines.

So of course the Philippines could not be defended, and even if our fleet had remained intact it could not have reached the Philippines ahead of the Japanese.

WHY WERE the Philippines left undefended?

The Hearst newspapers tirelessly but futilely CRUSADED for impregnable defenses in the Philippines over a period of many years.

American military and naval authorities familiar with the Pacific theater and the Japanese menace long appealed and PLEADED for fortifications and armaments in the Philippines.

Now some apologists for our impotency in the far Pacific at the outset of the present war are trying to obscure the real reasons for that situation by blaming Congress for its asserted failure to authorize fortification of Guam.

By itself, whatever its fortifications, the little fly-speck of Guam would still have been gobbled up by the Japanese.

The vital area in the Pacific was not Guam.

It was the Philippines.

AS A MATTER of fact, if the Philippines had been adequately fortified and capable of successful defense, in all probability there never would have BEEN a Japanese attack.

But as Admiral King implies, all this is past history.

THE IMORTANT THING NOW, AND FROM NOW ON, IS WHEHER OR NOT WE HAVE LEARNED OUR LESSON.

Now were going to have more outlying possessions than we everlefore owned or controlled.

We are ping to have not only the Philippines and Guam, but all the vast island areas formerly mandated to Japan.

BUT TESE POSSESSIONS WILL ONLY BE NEW LIABILITIS IF WE LEAVE THEM TO THE MERCIES OF THE FET AGGRESSORS TO COME ALONG, AS WE DID TH PHILIPPINES.

As Admal King says, what is the USE of having outlying possions if we are not going to DEFEND them?

That is deed America's OBJECT LESSON.

Wht About the Unions?

THE Mommery Ward seizure, affecting an organization sup ying solely civilian goods and services, is at worst a estapo proceeding and at best a high handed misuse of wtime powers. But for the moment let that issue be wai.

If the esident can justify his action in the Montgomery Wad case, what about the machinists' unions in the San Fransco Bay area?

If the re refusal of a civilian business to sign a contract wit a CIO union is sufficient cause for sending the Army to take forcible possession of the premises and manhandle the head of that business, what is the President going to do bout union bosses who, almost from the first day of war, have defied every process of the New Deal's own laws, have called 13 strikes, have held up vital ships and goods—anging through warships to transports to munitions—and who are at this moment in defiance of a War Labor Board order.

THESE union bosses have caused incalculable loss to the war effot.

Will the President send troops to seize the union's books and determine what happens to the huge sums received by the union in dues and initiation fees?

Will the President order all members of the union under 45 to be drated for the Army?

When John L. Lewis defied the government no troops were sent to eject him forcibly from his office and take over the unin.

What is the President going to do now about the men who are willing to jeopardize our Army and our Navy in the Pacific?

GOV. THOMAS E. DEWEY
"He Put Them Thieves in Jail"

WASHINGTON, April 27—I went up to New York the other day, to make my annual crop survey, and got a distinct impression. The gist of it was that New York — largely speaking — is about the only community in the country not yet fully awake to the possibility that Thomas E. Dewey may be the next President of the United States.

This is strange, when you think of it, because Manhattan should be the most Dewey-conscious spot in the land. He never really operated anywhere else until he became Governor.

He was District Attorney of Manhattan, although, to hear some people talk, you might think he had been District Attorney of the entire continental United States, if not its possessions. But his official activities were confined to this narrow, little island, smallest of the five boroughs, or an area of 31 square miles—which is not a vast amount of territory considering that Uncle Sam owns 3,735,223 square miles.

Furthermore, at the time he was assailing the forces of unrighteousness, he had to vie with similar attractions in Brooklyn, which is greater in population. But, for some reason, he grabbed the popular imagination—more so outside of New York than in it.

Voters in the farthest hinterlands can tell you all about Dewey—and do at the drop of a hat—even if they can't name the mayor preceding LaGuardia, who, by the way, was John Patrick O'Brien.

I WOULD LIKE to digress briefly to tell one story about John Patrick O'Brien. He got to be mayor suddenly because Jimmy Walker quit under fire during his trial for unfitness before F. D. Roosevelt, then governor of the State. It became necessary for Tammany Hall to find another man in a hurry.

They dug into Surrogate's Court and excavated O'Brien, who had been sitting quietly on a bench there for 20 years.

He was very nervous at his first press conference, but he insisted on telling us that he was beholden to no man and no party. He said he would make all his own decisions and would take no advice nor directions from Tammany. It sounded very firm and noble until one of the reporters asked:

"Mr. Mayor, who is to be your new police commissioner?"

"I don't know," said O'Brien. "They haven't told me yet!"

ON SECOND THOUGHT, I will tell you one more story about O'Brien, and we will get back to Dewey presently. After completing Walker's unexpired term, Mr. O'Brien found himself in a three-cornered race for re-election, the other two candidates being LaGuardia, for the Fusion Party and Joseph V. McKee, on a schismatic Tammany ticket which took the name of Recovery.

The paper on which I worked assigned a reporter to each candidate to do an around-the-clock with them. I drew O'Brien. The idea was to jot down everything your man did all day, giving the time and place.

For the first week I reported that O'Brien rose and took a bath, but, after a while, I assumed the readers would take it for granted he had bathed, and skipped mention of the ablutions.

The other two reporters kept bathing their candidates; in fact, Bill Rice, who had LaGuardia, tried to steal a march for his man by having the Little Flower take a shower in the morning and a tub bath at night.

Nevertheless, I was astounded, in fact flabbergasted, when Tammany Hall sent an indignant protest to my paper. Ray O'Sullivan, secretary of the Hall, who delivered the protest, charged that I was trying to make O'Brien a dirty candidate!

THE OVERBATHED LaGuardia won, and I have often wondered since if it wasn't the back-scrubbing publicity that turned the trick. Dewey was elected prosecutor on the same ticket.

Well, anyway, it seems from what I picked up in New York, that Dewey is still being treated pretty lightly there, compared with the rest of the country. The question I heard propounded oftenest was:

"What does Dewey know about running a big country like this? He is still comparatively untried as Governor. And what did he ever do before except put a few mugs, with weird names, away?"

It would seem that if New Yorkers wish an answer to the latter question that should get out around the country. From reports reaching me from all sections, it is just that thing which is doing the most toward putting Dewey over.

My operatives inform me that the majority of voters in other parts of the country are beginning to view almost everything that goes on in Washington with deep suspicion and distrust. And one of the things they report hearing most in their tours of political survey is:

"When Dewey gets in he'll put a quick stop to all that finangling. Don't forget, he put them thieves in jail!"

"HE PUT them thieves in jail" may well become the Dewey slogan when he stops this coyness and announces he is in the field. My operatives assure me that it's a winner.

I SAW Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones in New York and, after I saw him, a fellow asked me if I had heard the real reason why Vice-President Wallace was going to China. I said I hadn't.

"I will tell you," said this fellow. "Mr. Wallace heard Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the Republican National Party, say that a Chinaman could be elected this time, so Mr. Wallace is going to China to take out naturalization papers!"

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 28—There's to be a "Life With Mother" to take its place (Oscar Serlin hopes) with that unending hit, "Life With Father."

The same playwrights, Howard Lindsey and Russell Crouse, have written the companion piece based on another one of Charles Day's books, "Life With Mother." "Day authored three books," Oscar told me, "'Life With Father,' 'Life With Mother' and 'God and My Father.'" At that rate, the material for plays may never run out.

When I asked Serlin about the movie rights to "Life With Father" he said the situation was status quo—meaning no sale" so far. He thinks making a movie of any of the Day stories would be a mistake while they thrive so well on the stage. Howard Lindsey, who created "Father," and Dorothy Stickney, who played "Mother" in the original, will star in the new play—but there will have to be new red-headed boys. Seven of the original youngsters are now with Uncle Sam.

JENNIFER JONES, who has been in and out of "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier" like a jack-in-the-box, is now definitely out. Anne Baxter is in. That's settled, and I hope it stays put. Let me say right out in print that 20th is making no mistake in pushing the Baxter girl. She is one of Hollywood's most gifted young actresses. I don't know what happens with Jennifer, who still has a movie to make at 20th. Perhaps she wants to go to Reno for that long-postponed divorce. Getting back to "Dinner," Bill Eythe, who makes no secret of his admiration for Anne Baxter, will be her leading man in the Martha Cheevers story.

WHEN EDWARD GOLDEN, producer of RKO's fantastic money-maker, "Hitler's Children," helped make a meager investment of $180,000 turn into millions of dollars, I started to ask questions about him. I learned that he was a graduate dentist and had practiced dentistry just as Edgar Buchanan, the movie actor, had done. Golden has one son, Robert, who is about to make his debut as a producer. Golden, Sr., has bought the film rights to "Breakfast at Sardi's," which he is turning over to his boy to make into a picture. He, himself, is preparing "The Master Race" for RKO and I am told it is another sensation.

CLIFTON WEBB has lost all the trunks with his wardrobe—all his London-made dress clothes, business suits, top hats, shirts and ties. He wouldn't be so unhappy if he hadn't planned to wear them all in "Laura." "But," he says philosophically, "I carried two suits with me, and they will do until my trunks are located, or I can get some new clothes made."

GENE FOWLER is the most entertaining man I know. He and I were both weekend guests of some mutual friends and we had a lot of fun reminiscing. He told me he wrote most of "Good Night Sweet Prince" in the kitchen after everybody in the house was in bed. He said he loves to sit down at the kitchen table with a can of sardines and some crackers and work. He got this midnight habit when he was on the New York American and worked all night.

JOHN DAHL, an unknown, stands a good chance of geting the job that almost any ator would covet that of playing opposite Bette Davis in "The Corn Is Green." The choice has narrowed down to William Prince and John Dahl, and, I heard through the grapevine, that Jack Chertok has practically decided on Dahl, of whom I had never heard until this very moment. But if he is as promising as they all say on the Warner lot he must indeed be a discovery.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Fanny Brice-John Contl romance is on ice and it's Fanny who said farewell, not John; a note from Lieut. Richard Ney, who is already in Florida. Each day Greer Garson gets flowers from him; John Garfield came home from overseas to find that his house had been sold over his head; rumor is strong that Jack Topping's next bride will be Jane Randolph; Lois Andrews, dining with George Jessel, attracted attention, but not too much since he sees her about once a week; saw Sam Goldwyn dining with Charlie Chaplin and Oona, which certainly puts a lie to the rumor that the Chaplin baby had already been born; Bennie Thau with Frances Gifford, was joined by Andrea Leads and Bob Howard, who has his honorable discharge from the Army. Andrea has, after four years, obtained her release from the Goldwyn Company and may make a picture; Lieut. Bob Taplinger, up from San Diego was with Jennifer Jones again. They had been at a birthday party Mrs. William Pereira gave for her husband; Ralph Murphy wires that he has gone to San Francisco to whip the Howard Lang show, "School for Brides" into shape. He also denies that he is making pictures in Mexico City; Mrs. John Jacob Astor III is in town and was the guest of honor at a party Eleanor Harris gave last eve. Patty Hutton has turned domesticated and done her house over. Louise Allbritton had dinner last eve with George Reis. They were overseas in the same group. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Luxurious Pre-War Spring Construction

3 Pc. Moderne Living Room

- With Coil Spring Base—Spring Back—Spring Cushions
- In extra fine Jacquard Velvet Covering
- Wears like iron—Resists Soil—Guaranteed against Moths

This handsome moderne living room set is gloriously, luxuriously comfortable because it's made from top to bottom with the steel coil spring construction so popular before the war. Even though springs have been released, most sets on the market today are half spring or quarter spring or with no springs at all. This set illustrated we repeat is made just like before the war.
Notice the graceful moderne lines and unusually rich covering. It's the set you've been waiting for for years.

Included are the full size sofa, matching club chair and contrasting channel back wing chair.

POMP AND SPLENDOR

Offertory music was the "Domini Jesu Christe," by Illingsworth, and the five responsories during the absolution were "Subviente," "Que Lazuruni," "Domine Quando Vereris," and "Ne Reccorderis," all ancient Gregorian chants, and the "Liberea Ne Domine," by Perosi.

The splendor of the music and the pomp of the church, dating back to the early days of Christianity were present, but because the occasion was a requiem mass, the assemblage of "Greater Prelates," were clad in vestments and garments less colorful than they are entitled to wear at other times.

The Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, D. D., auxiliary bishop of the diocese and interim administrator, serving as eulogist, brought home the full meaning of devotion which the 84-year-old Cardinal O'Connell had won for himself in his 60 years in the priesthood before his death from bronchial pneumonia last Saturday.

BEHOLD GREAT PRIEST

Bishop Cushing's words were carried over the public address system to the thousands gathered outside the cathedral, and by radio to an audience of millions throughout New England.

As his topic, the bishop took words from the Book of Ecclesiasticus of the Old Testament, Chapter XLV: 16, 17, words which said:

"Behold a great Priest, who in his days pleased God, and was found just; and in the time of wrath was made a reconciliation."

In his eloquent eulogy, delivered in tones which ranged from a barely audible whisper to an emphatic crescendo, Bishop Cushing said:

PRIESTHOOD IN TRIUMPH

"Behold a great priest. He whose mortal remains lie here before the altar of this cathedral, whose soul has gone forth attended by our prayers and the prayers of millions all over the world, could ask for his extraordinary endowments and surpassing achievements no more satisfying recognition. That was his ambition, that was his triumph—to be a great priest."

After tracing the departed prelate's achievements and successes as a young priest, including his rectorship at the American College at Rome, the eulogist told of the Cardinal's vigorous fight on his eventual return to Boston to break down the barriers of bigotry and intolerance among those of different creeds and races.

"By faith and patience and goodwill," said Bishop Cushing, "by dint of example and counsel, he strove to destroy the ignorance which breeds prejudice, the misconceptions which perpetuate dissension. The odds against him were enormous, obscure, increased by the active operation of forces which a generation earlier had been only speculations and theories. Perhaps the task he set was too long for even his long life time and giant strength. But what one man could do he has done, so that now we live our lives and fulfill our destinies on an equal footing with our fellow citizens of all faiths in an atmosphere of mutual respect and tolerance.

"Behold a great priest, who in his days pleased God and was found just; and in the time of wrath was made a reconciliation.

"It is not surprising that civil as well as ecclesiastical authorities recognized the power and influence of this eminent prelate. Widely traveled, deeply versed in the history, the customs and the governments of many nations, he was ever filled with a profound love of his native land and her institutions.

"The highest officials of state and nation recognized in him not only a true patriot but also a leader in the defense of the principles upon which our nation has risen to greatness. He was an eloquent teacher of civic virtue, of justice and honesty and respect for authority. He taught his people to know their civic duties and practice them and to know their civic rights and demand them.

"In every crisis of our country he hastened to place his services at the command of the government.

"To his words of advice, of admonition and of warning, all men turned attentive ears, because no one ever doubted his understanding, his sympathy or his judgment.

"Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow we shall be enriched and ennobled by the abiding influence of his myriad of lasting works."

Bishop Cushing spoke touchingly of the love Cardinal O'Connell had for his mother, saying: "At her feet, as long as she lived, he laid his scholastic trophies and priestly honors as an act of love and gratitude for her inspiration and help."

SOLEMN MOMENT

Throughout the eulogy, the Apostolic Delegate was seated on the throne of the late Cardinal on the Gospel side of the altar, while Cardinal Dougherty occupied the throne on the Epistle side.

Following the eulogy, came the most solemn moment—the rites of absolution—as the celebrant and all assisting priests after a bow of reverence at the altar, turned toward the portal of the Cathedral and marched in formal procession to the bier.

There, before the altar where the body of His Eminence had rested in state since Monday, four bishops stood at each corner of the casket. As each in turn, un-parted an absolution over the mortal remains of the dead prelate, the celebrant looked on, and finally, from his place at the foot of the bier administered the last solemn absolution as bearers prepared to carry the casket through the center aisle of the church.

With the church services ended, the funeral cortege followed the hearse to Brighton along a route through West Dedham st., from Washington st., to Dartmouth st., to Commonwealth ave., and out the avenue to the episcopal residence in Lake st.

BURIAL SERVICE

There, before the simple altar in the Chapel of Our Lady the casket was placed and the solemn burial service conducted by church dignitaries, in the presence of relatives, members of the clergy and many civic officials.

At the conclusion of final prayers and blessings, prelates chanted a final "Amen" to the earthly career of the great spiritual leader and the mortal remains of Cardinal O'Connell were lowered slowly to the crypt beneath the floor of the chapel.

The body was borne from the church and again from the hearse to the crypt by a detail of 14 police sergeants.

Thousands of Catholics unable to gain admission to the Cathedral rites—admission was by ticket only because of the limited seating capacity—attended special masses held today at all of the 325 parishes throughout the diocese.

MOURNING HOLIDAY

With all of Boston observing a mourning holiday, the funeral route was thronged with persons long before the procession was scheduled to leave the church.

Stores generally were closed. City Hall was shut down for all but essential business. School sessions, both public and parochial, were cancelled. All radio stations in the city observed a minute of silence just before the hour of the funeral mass. And at 10 a. m., hour for the start of the services, the bells on every piece of fire apparatus in the city began tolling.

Among civic officials attending the mass was a delegation of the principal departments of the Commonwealth headed by Gov. Saltonstall and his staff. Govs. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island and Sumner Sewall of Maine were also accompanied by representatives from their respective states.

CONGRESS GROUP

The delegation from Congress was headed by U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh and Rep. John W. McCormack. A contingent of mayors of surrounding communities, together with members of the Boston City Council and city department officials was led by Mayor Tobin.

Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain, arrived by airplane from Miami Beach, Fla., this morning to take his place among the distinguished mourners.

Delegates were present from the Army and Navy, and there were representatives of non-Catholic religions at the service headed by Archbishop Athenagoras of the Green Orthodox Church, Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill of the Episcopal diocese, Rabbi Herman Rubenovitz of the Rabbinical Ass'n, and representatives of the Council of Protestant Churches.

DIPLOMATIC CORPS

The diplomatic corps was headed by Robert Brennan, official representative of the Eire government. Great Britain was represented by the British consul-general, and other governments with envoys present included Argentina, Brazil, Belgium, Colombia, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Greece, Lithuania and Portugal.

Also present were 22 representatives of the Knights of Malta and a delegation of the Knights of St. Gregory. The bench and bar were represented by groups headed by Chief Justice Field of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, Chief Justice Higgins of the Superior Court, Judge Dillon of Probate Court, U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon and Dist. Atty. William J. Foley.

Delegations attended from the Harvard Chaplains School and from Catholic hospitals, institutions, lay organizations, and colleges. There were also representatives of business and professional groups of the city, and a delegation from Boston newspapers.

More than 400 policemen were assigned to the Cathedral area, along the funeral route and at the Diocesan House in Brighton to handle the crowds which one veteran police official termed "the greatest outpouring of humanity in Boston's history."

Traffic arrangements were supervised by Deputy Police Supt. James J. Hinchey. Four motorcycle patrolmen escorted the funeral cortege to the services at the Cathedral and from there to the chapel in Brighton.

Since the body of the Cardinal was brought to the Cathedral Monday afternoon, 200,000 persons made a pilgrimage to the church to view the prelate in death and pay final respects to the man who was their Good Shepherd.

LAST TRIBUTE

Other thousands attended three solemn high masses—one for children, another for lay representatives, the third for religious orders—in the three days preceding today's final rites.

Yesterday, the Cathedral was visited by another vast crowd from early morning until after 10 o'clock last night. Many passed through the church in silence during one of the simplest, but most impressive ceremonies of the entire week, the chanting of the Office of the Dead by Archbishop Spellman, Bishop Cushing, and 300 priests.

The last tribute of the laity was given after the Cathedral was closed to the public last night when Thomas McInerney, faithful navigator of the Chevrus Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, led the guard of honor in procession up the center aisle of the church.

These knights, who have stood guard by the bier since the Cardinal's body first lay in state, drew their gleaming swords, which flashed in the candlelight, then flourished them in a final, silent tribute.

10 Topsfield Boys To Pay for Breaks

SALEM, April 28 — Ten Topsfield boys, nine of them juveniles, must make reparations ranging from $5 to $50 apiece, by order of Judge George B. Sears, who found them to blame for a dozen house breaks, thefts of 200 gallons of gasoline and other articles worth $1000.

Two men, Dwight Kiley, 38, of Peabody, and Seymour Osborne, 26, of Topsfield, were also arraigned on charges of receiving stolen goods said by police to have been taken in two of the breaks by the boys. The pair pleaded not guilty, and their cases were continued to May 5.

Quake Recorded In New Guinea Region

BOMBAY, April 28 (AP)—An earthquake shock of great intensity was recorded at the Bombay Observatory shortly after 9 o'clock last night, it was announced today.

Observatory officials said the epicenter was approximately 4290 miles from Bombay and estimated it to be in the vicinity of New Guinea, where Gen. MacArthur's forces are now engaging the Japanese.

Postwar Curb On Rule Urged

NEW YORK, April 28 (INS)—Eric A. Johnston, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, warned of the danger that "big government" which has grown "at the expense of the people's liberty," not only "will be continued but intensified after the war unless the people act resolutely and positively."

Speaking at the annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers' Ass'n Bureau of Advertising, Johnston declared that machinery of government will have to be dismantled just as the machinery of war production. He said:

"The war has inevitably brought about sweeping changes in the character of American life. We as a people have put aside certain individual freedoms for the duration.

"It is our duty to make sure that the 'duration' does not last beyond the duration. Many of the things forced on us by the hour of need shall have to be undone when peace comes."

"Blondie," America's great human interest comic strip, appears every day in the Boston American.

Medical Fees Cut

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 28 (INS)—Families of many service men from New Jersey had a break today from the 2000 members of state medical society. The society's house of delegates voted to reduce fees 50 per cent for families of men in military service.

Dr. Archer Assails Ward Co. Tyranny

CHICAGO, April 28 (AP)—Dr. Gleason L. Archer, chairman of the anti-New Deal American Democratic National Committee, said he "condemns in the strongest possible terms the high-handed tyranny involved in the seizure of the Montgomery Ward establishment."

"The Montgomery Ward Company is not engaged in war work," Dr. Archer said. "How then does the commanded in chief justify his action?"

Brett Bridal Tuesday

POST DEB PRISCILLA BRETT'S friends have seen to it that she has a plentiful supply of pretty feminine stationery on which to write thank-you notes for her wedding gifts. The other day her cousin and maid of honor, Janet Stevens, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Alan Hobart, honored the bride-to-be with a paper shower.

Priscilla's fiance, W. Randolph Sides, Jr., USA, is due to arrive from the South, Sunday, and their wedding is planned for Tuesday in the Harvard Congregational Church. A reception follows at the Otis Place home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Snow Brett.

On the eve of the wedding the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Sides of Wellesley Hills are entertaining at a buffet supper for the couple.

Priscilla and her bridegroom will make their home for the present in North Carolina where he is studying engineering under the Army specialized training program.

Sweet Lily of the Valley Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

WITH THE VOGUE for floral fashion accents this season . . . worn in the hair, at the throat, on lapels of suits or in belts of dresses . . . and with the enthusiastic revival of all things Victorian in decor . . . it's only natural that floral perfumes and fragrances should be all the rage.

One of the most beloved and effective scents to add a dramatic note to your new suit . . . and a fresh, dainty note to the light bare-look clothes for summer . . . is a lily of the valley fragrance . . . especially created by a feminine perfume genius . . . who gives the last touch of realism to her masterpieces by finishing them off with exquisite, artificial sprigs of lily of the valley which you can remove and wear . . . And no truer lily of the valley has ever been distilled . . . and captured in perfume, eau de toilette, bath oil, body powder and hand-sewn satin sachets . . . than in the incredibly realistic lily of the valley sequences created by this perfumer.

The large artificial sprigs of the flower . . . attached to the body powder and sachets . . . are so life-like.

These and the smaller sprigs on the talcum powder you can really use to dress up your hair, suit lapel, belt or even the mirror of your dressing table.

For the name of this lily of the valley sequence, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ONE OF THOSE IRRESISTIBLE underarm bags . . . especially styled for spring . . . is this smart lucite framed and softly shirred lustrous black faille model designed by Josef. It is a handbag to wear with confidence with your new prints and suits. —R. M.

FOR AN ILLUSION OF REALITY wear a jabot of lily of the valley to supplement the gorgeous floral fragrance . . . so amazingly captured in a fragrance series by a feminine perfumer . . . and be smart . . . as it is smart to add dramatic touches at the throat, in the hair or at the belt of floral sprigs.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday —Yesterday morning I went out to Walter Reed Hospital. There were a number of guests at luncheon, and from 4 o'clock on I had half-hour appointments with a variety of people, all with different interests. At 5 o'clock Miss Craig McGeachy, who is the head of welfare activities in UNRRA, brought in two British women, Miss Kathleen Courtney, chairman of the general purposes committee of the London International Assembly, and Miss Florence Horsbrough, member of Parliament, both of whom I have met before.

SOME TIME AGO WE HAD a movie here called "The Story of Dr. Wassell." I think it is one of the most inspiring stories and I hope that everyone in the country will see it, not only because of the inspiration people will derive from it, but because 5 per cent of all proceeds goes to Navy relief.

Because I wrote about the importance of girls' clubs the other day, I am now getting material from many places. Boston and Waterbury, Ct., both seem to be extremely active in this field. Boston has two club houses and prospects of more. Eighteen hundred girls between 7 and 18 years of age are being served by the two Boston club houses, and they are giving them instruction and recreation in a great variety of activities.

THERE IS ONE SENTENCE in the letter they wrote me which I think should be the goal aimed at for boys' and girls' clubs, so I quote it here: "Drawing youngsters in from all the social strata with no religious, racial or economic restrictions, by treating them as equals among themselves, The Girls' Clubs of Boston, Inc., have made an enviable record of achievement in character building, mind developing and body conditioning."

Today I am going to the benefit fashion luncheon given by the American Theatre Wing Stage Door Canteen.

Graduation Gifts

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Is it correct to give gifts to my dearest girl friends who are graduating with me from the same school? If so, will you please suggest something appropriate, something say, for about two or three dollars?

INQUIRER.

Yes, it's proper to give these gifts. How about giving a book for each to "keep and cherish," a collection of poems, for example? In these volumes you could write a beautiful dedication of friendship. Or you might give them handkerchiefs, with their first names on them, or embroidered with the facsimile of their signatures; or a small photograph frame; a piece of costume jewelry, perhaps a corsage ornament; a vanity case; a bracelet charm; an envelope evening bag, or a change purse for a day bag; a sport pin or scarf; a paper cutter for a desk, or a bed vase for the dressing table

WRITE HER MOTHER FIRST

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: A girl in my class in high school lives in the suburbs, and last evening her mother telephoned inviting me to spend a week-end at her home. When I return from my visit, should I write my bread-and-butter letter to my friend or to her mother?

PEGGY.

First you write your thanks-for-the-visit to the mother, since your first courtesy is due to the hostess of the home in which you will visit. Then you also write to the girl. And your mother should write to the girl's mother, telling her what a happy time you had and thanking her for her friendliness and hospitality to you

Go Easy on Sunday Cooking

By MARTHA LEE

EVERY HOMEMAKER deserves a day of rest from cooking on Sunday. Puttering around the kitchen is relaxing for some people, but on Sunday most women would rather relax in an easy chair and read the Sunday paper or chat with the family. Plans can be made to have that type of a Sunday by making preparations Saturday afternoon or Friday evening.

Prunes or some other stewed fruit can be prepared ahead of time for breakfast. If the family likes wheat cakes, the dry ingredients and shortening can be mixed whenever there is time the day before. While the ingredients are close at hand the quantities needed for a hot bread for dinner or supper might be measured too. Then on Sunday only liquid need be added—a minimum of fuss and bother.

BREAKFAST

Stewed Prunes
Ready-to-Serve Cereal — Milk
Wheat Cakes — Syrup
Coffee

It is usually best to plan to have dinner at midday on Sunday. With that schedule family members are more free to follow their own plans for the rest of the day. A roast is probably the easiest main course. There is only the effort needed to place the meat on a rack in an open roasting pan, insert the meat thermometer (if one is available) and place it in a slow or moderate oven.

Wash the potatoes the night before and on Sunday bake or boil them in their jackets. That saves time and the potatoes retain more vitamins when cooked that way too. Vegetables may be cleaned the evening before.

SUNDAY DINNER

Roast Loin of Pork
Potatoes in Jackets
Asparagus
Molded Apple Salad
Corn Meal Muffins
Jelly
Butterscotch Rice Pudding
Coffee

Supper should be the simplest of all. A ready-to-eat meat platter could be served every Sunday evening without monotony for there is wide variety of meats to choose from. Any mixture of cooked vegetables or fresh vegetables might be tossed together for a vegetable salad in lettuce.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER

Ready-to-Eat Meats
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Cinnamon Toast
Tea

BUTTERSCOTCH RICE PUDDING

1-3 cup raw white rice, washed
½ tsp. salt
1¼ cup boiling water
2 tbsp butter or margarine
¾ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
1½ cups evaporated milk

Cook the rice with the salt and the boiling water in a double boiler for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, combine butter and brown sugar in a skillet and cook over a low heat, while stirring from three to five minutes. Add, together with the milk, to the rice, and cook for 30 minutes longer, or until rice is tender. Chill and serve with or without top milk or cream. Six servings.

Wants Uncle To Grow Up

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: My uncle who has always considered me his favorite niece, lives in the same town I do. I'm very fond of him, too, but he has developed some frivolous ways, which make me ashamed of him at times. He is past 50, but tries to act like a high school boy. I like a man to act his age, but my uncle's conversation is so shallow and frivolous. We giggle at his stale jokes, as we know he expects us to, but just because we seem silly to other people, we don't want them to come down to our level, but want them to help us up to their plane.

My uncle could be much help and pleasure to me if he would exercise a little more intelligence. What can I do or say to get my uncle to act his age?

E. M. N.

Fifty has been called the "dangerous age" for middle-aged gentlemen who persist in turning back the clock and acting as adolescents. But they have such a delightful time with their jokes and pranks, and general light-heartedness, that it seems too bad to try to change them. I believe, in your place, I'd try to bear with uncle's giddiness. You and the other girls would hurt his feelings dreadfully if you tried to make him grow up.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

"OUT OF THINGS?" If you always seem to be "out of things," to never be included in a group conversation, etc., the chances are that the fault is your own. If you sit back and wait for others to "draw you out" you may find yourself "left out."

Braided Designs on Summer Coats

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SUMMER coats, to wear with most everything, are given a personality treatment of braided designs by some of the best designers of our clothes. Vera Maxwell, who is famous for her coats, is one who likes to put the sparkle of braid on her best coats.

I think you'll love them. The braid is usually black on light or gay colors, and the effect is very exciting. One of these braided coats is sketched by Miss Dulin. It is made of parma violet-colored wool, and is a short coat, loose from the shoulders with a demure turnover collar.

The braid design is black with rows of red buttons between the braid, and this trimming is put on the collar and pocket flaps, and around a slit at the back of the coat.

That Important Envelope

On every envelope you address to a serviceman, be sure to write your name and complete address in the upper left corner.—Mrs. Beeckman.

Broadway

NEW YORK, April 28—Do you know that Harry James and his Missus (better known as Betty Grable) are renting a house in Bucks County and will spend the summer in the East? . . . Do you think Errol Flynn is serious about Julie Bishop, the way he's showering her with flowers? . . . Do you know that chiselers who used to peddle "hot" furs now have switched to tax-free pocketbooks? . . . Have you seen Adolph Menjou wearing his Aussie skimmer? . . . and could you resist giving it a double take? . . . Anything to the report that Arthur Schwartz, the ex-Broadway songwriter, will take over Hal Wallis' chores at Warners? . . . What's this about postwar unionization of aviators? . . . Is Lucius Beebe going on the air.

AREN'T Judy Garland and Gloria De Haven snubbing each other these days—because of Peter Lawford? . . . Have you noticed that Vera Raye and Charlie Barnet have caught up with each other, and don't you wish you could eavesdrop on that dialogue? . . . Aren't Jackie Gleason and Honeychile Wilder amusing on that WOR airshow? . . . Do you know that the young singer around town who claims to be Jerri Blanchard's niece isn't, because Jerri hasn't any niece? . . . Have you heard that Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter's brother is working, without any publicity, in the N. Y. C. finance department? Isn't Vinton Freedley planning another mammoth musical?

EVER HEAR of a band rising as fast as Frankie Carle and his crew? . . . Do you know that Sergt. Bob Davis of "Winged Victory" is altar-bound with socialite Virginia Porter? . . . Isn't Charlie Michaelson right back at the publicity helm of the Democratic Party, even though from behind the scenes? . . . Has Noel Coward joined Lord Mountbatten as an intelligence officer? . . . Is Gary Cooper about to shove off again to entertain our boys overseas? . . . Don't you wish you could see the poem Robert Moses composed and dedicated to Mrs. Gristede who started all the Central Park fuss? . . . Do you know that virtually every publisher is rushing along a book in basic English, to give Winston Churchill's pet project a big push when the armistice is signed? . . . Anything to the rumor that Katharine Hepburn has made queries about service in the WACs, WAVES or SPARS?

DO YOU KNOW that some tenderhearted night club owners are paying the 30 per cent tax out of their own pockets in the cases of embarrassed doughboys who aren't aware of the tax and are caught short? . . . Do you believe the friends who say Dick Powell still hopes Joan Blondell will come back to him? . . . Is Ilona Massey scheduled for a checkup in a local hospital soon? . . . Will a Hollywood career separate Sherry Shadburne from her feller, handsome Jim Moriarity of the Barberry Room? . . . Isn't it a shame civilians won't get a chance to see "About Face," the Army Special Service Division's blueprint GI show which is reported to be the funniest soldier revue yet penned?

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, April 28—As I told you before, when I read a book I always have a pencil near to make a mark next to an interesting or informative paragraph. Now, looking over those "marked paragraphs" concerning collections—I note that back in the days when glamour was known as "It" and Clara Bow was "It" in more ways than one, Harry T. Brundige interviewed her. And this interview is printed in a collection of Brundige's articles called "Twinkle Twinkle Movie Star."

Miss Bow is reminiscing and these are direct quotes: "I was still a tomboy when I entered high school; and we were still miserably poor. The girls didn't have a thing to do with me. Then I met Billy O——. He was a Boy Scout, and very handsome. He was the first boy that regarded me as a girl, and not as a boy, as the other fellows did. I guess I was beginning to develop appeal, although I was very homely. Billy was the first boy I ever kissed seriously, and that ended my tomboy days. I think he told some of the other fellows that I had kissed him, because boys that I used to play baseball with began chasing me."

MUCH HAS BEEN written about Charlie Chaplin in the papers recently, as you are aware, but it is his movie career that concerns me. My pencil-marks in the chapter devoted to him in "The Rise of the American Film," by Lewis Jacobs, discloses that Chaplin was the first "Merton of the Movies" in Hollywood, if we are to believe one of the early interviews Chaplin granted to Gene Morgan of the Chicago Herald.

This is Chaplin talking about his trip to Hollywood to enter pictures:

"I traveled all the way across the continent with glorious visions haunting my lower berth dreams. I dreamed that I was the great romantic actor of the age, the ideal Romeo of the Photo-Shakespearean. When I arrived in California I prepared to don the doublet and hose of the 14th century lovers.

"You can imagine my feelings when I was told that the first character I would play would be a man with a limp and a backache, trying to carry a trunk and balance a scuttle of coal on his head while climbing a greasy step ladder.

"I was indignant. I said I wouldn't play . . . and then I thought of the long trip back to Broadway and decided it was a good plan to try anything once."

Boston After Dark

EVE GOLDEN, THIS COLUMN'S favorite poetess, makes one of her infrequent appeals for help, and as usual, Miss Golden's plea is launched in iambic pentameter . . . But the column has foresworn poetry—publicly . . . (As for all time . . .) The Brighton lyricist must be satisfied therefore, with publication of her letter . . . It tells the story as neatly as the poem . . . The letter: "The Russian War Relief, 317 Harvard st., Brookline, really needs your help . . . Tons of materials have been donated, thanks to the efforts of Mrs. Thomas Small, our chief . . . The little group of women, who in one year have sent 80 tons of mended clothes, 500 blankets, some made out of heavy cloth pieces, and some out of knitted squares, and countless sweaters, helmets, and baby layettes, is not large enough . . . We'd like to put some feeling into the hearts of the Mah-jong players . . . The little group of 'regulars' is really working beyond the members' strength."

AND THE POSTMAN RINGS AGAIN—with this . . . "It will probably interest you to know that your little article about the two shake-down artists and saboteurs, plus the management racketeers, was the general topic of conversation in that defense plant . . . Two special investigators arrived quickly from Washington . . . They gave the head man looking after Uncle Sam's interest one week to clean house . . . If you follow the story, you will be helping the war effort by lifting the morale of men doing an honest day's work and who are sick of seeing these characters getting away with murder."

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Judge Raymond McMahon, and Mrs. McMahon, of Pawtucket were visitors at "Pick-Up Girl" last night . . . As the voting in the presidential delegate primaries is being analyzed, it is becoming evident to the "experts" that former Gov. Ely and Schoolcommitteeman Michael J. Ward, among others, were aware of the anti-administration temper of Boston Democrats . . . That Dist.-Atty. William J. Foley would beat his ancient enemy, Cong. John W. McCormack in a South Boston ward in a contest for delegates was not as unexpected as some "experts" proclaimed it . . . The Suffolk County district-attorney could probably carry his South Boston home-district against McCormack.

CHARLIE MOONEY, the veteran telegrapher, has written an "I Love You" song . . . The title is "I Love You, Believe Me I Do," and it is getting plugged on the airwaves . . . Cole Porter's "I Love You," from "Mexican Hayride," has reached the No. 1 spot on the hit parade.

MIKE TODD has bought the 48th Street Theater, New York, and—for good measure—a Chicago theater too . . . It makes Mike the most solidly entrenched young producer in the business . . . Pick-Up Girl" goes into the 48th Street . . . If the New York showing bears out the Boston promise, "Pick-Up Girl" will assure the Todd office profits from "both ends"—as the trade calls it when a producer's show plays his own theater.

THE NICE WAY ELSA SHELLEY, author of "Pick-Up Girl," is taking the prosperity that goes with the writing of a prospective hit, is what could might have been expected from the modest ex-actress . . . What a season this has been for actresses-turned playwright . . . Ruth Gordon began it, with her hit "Over 21" . . . Margaret Curtis with "A Highland Fling," and Claiborne Foster with "Pretty Little Parlor" continued the trend . . . Neither play was successful, but the girls will be maintaining a 50-50 average (very high) if "Pick-Up Girl" clicks in New York . . . Sheila Barrett is wonderful at the Renaissance Room of the Touraine . . . The Bradford Roof is featuring the news that diners don't have to pay a 30 per cent tax until 9:30 p. m. . . . The show and dancing start at that hour.

TWO OF CHANDRA KALY'S THREE GIRL DANCERS are French, Mouni and Sumara . . . Djemil, the third (with the upturned nose and the gorgeous little figure), is half Sioux Indian, and a native of Scotland . . . (She was reared in Chicago) . . . Chandra, himself, came to America six months before war burst on Europe . . . He is a native of the East Indies.

Calloway Jive Thrills All; Gay RKO Boston Revue

By JOYCE DANA

The crown prince of hi-de-ho, Cab Calloway, takes over lock, stock and barrel, the new show at the RKO-Boston. The king of swing, getting off to a good start, with the boys and gals in an appreciative mood, opens up the show with a zippy "Frantic on the Atlantic" business, and then goes on to another novelty, "We, the Cats, Shall Hep You." It's a hot number.

For dancing on the new program, there are Helmer and Jean, who combine a little juggling and a glass of water with their terpsichorean talents. A cute pair they are.

Another nifty number in the spotlight is pretty Dorothy Saulters, who sings "Straighten Up" and "Fly Right," and good advice in song.

The Cabrolets—six charming girls with a dancer—put on another ace act with that strobolite effect, which is just a luminous glow from where you sit.

Then the three Chocklateers do some hot knockabout stuff, Johnny Taylor pitches a whole game of baseball for a smart comedy turn and the Calloway boys round out the bill with "Holiday for Strings," "One O'clock Jump," and "My First Love," with Cab singing straight, believe it or not

On the screen, you can regale yourself with "Her Primitive Man," a slightly misleading title, but a good show, with Louise Allbritton, Robert Paige and Robert Benchley to take the top honors.

Action Aplenty in Met's 'Passage to Marseille'

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Passage to Marseille," the Metropolitan Theater breath-stopper, gives heart-stopper Humphrey Bogart virtually no time for love.

But the Warner cinematic click can well dispense with clinches when it gives you the director, the star and most of the cast of the Academy Award winning "Casablanca" as well as the punch and suspense that hallmark this box-office smash.

Humphrey Bogart

Capsuled to you, this real-as-life thriller is the story of five convicts serving time in the turkish bath, mosquito-saturated torpor that is Devil's Island,, who learning of France's danger, plot to fight the Nazis.

They escape in a leaky boat with the help of an aged patriot trusty, Vladimir Sokoloff, endure incredible hardships, are picked up by a French tramp ship bound for Marseille with a valuable nickel ore cargo. Sydney Greenstreet, a pro-Vichy colonial official, questions them, malevolently arranges for their arrest when they reach port.

Claude Rains, head of a French air base in England (who is telling the story of one of his bomber squadrons to American war correspondent John Loder), and the ship's captain, Victor Francen, who also is loyal to the Republic, circumvent Greenstreet's Fascist villany. But their altered course, which will take them to England instead of a Nazi-held French port, is discovered by Greenstreet.

The five convicts' tough courage breaks up the mutiny Greenstreet has instigated, restores Francen to his command but not before the Fascist wireless operator has gotten through a message to a German plane which attacks immediately.

The fight between the Nazi bomber and the French ship will have you hanging on the ropes, but you'll cheer, however weakly, when the convicts minus the pickpocket, the valiant Peter Lorre, reach England safely.

All five including, besides Bogart and Lorre, Helmut Dantine, George Tobias and Philip Dorn, are immense. The same unstinted praise goes to Francen, Greenstreet, Rains and Edward Cianelli. Loder is merely an ear and Michele Morgan, a lovely armful in this slick Hal B. Wallis-Michael Curtiz spine-tingler.

Soviets' Growth Shown on Screen

"Russia's Foreign Policy," latest World In Action release interpreting present-day Russia and explaining the Kremlin's stand on international affairs, is now showing on the South Station Theater screen. The film traces the growth of the Soviet Union in the past 30 years from "the horse age of peasant poverty to become the world's second greatest industrial power."

WINNER of the Unpopularity sweepstakes is the black-hearted witch of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which continues to play to more people than it did when it made its debut here. It continues at the Normandie but will close at the Majestic Sunday night to make way for the Wednesday opening of "Song of Bernadette."

Cambridge Summer Shows Start June 5

Cambridge Summer Theater Brattle Hall, Cambridge, will open its fifth season of 15 weeks on June 5 with Ethel Barrymore Colt starring in "Tonight or Never."

'Rationing' With Beery Is Slapstick at Loew's

Strictly off the cob and well-larded with slapstick is the latest Wallace Beery vs. Marjorie Main film feud, "Rationing," which is certain to find divided reaction on the part of State and Orpheum red and blue stamp holders.

If you find the middle-aged squabbling of these two comics amusing, you'll doubtless be highly diverted. Otherwise you'll discover them and their current vehicle creaking in the guffaw-and-g a g s department.

Marjorie Main

Beery is presently impersonating a rural storekeeper understandably bothered and bewildered by the maze of rationing rules and regulations. From Miss Main, neighbor, ration board head and his eventual Xanthippe, he gets no help but plenty of headaches.

Their carping clowning is pleasantly if not frequently enough interrupted by the romancing of Dorothy Morris, Miss Main's daughter, and Tommy Batten, Beery's adopted son. Beery does everything he can to bring about the marriage and Miss Main concentrates on breaking it up.

Beery's sale to Howard Freeman of a half-interest in the store to provide the couple a honeymoon purse leads to the uncovering of a thriving black market ring. Henry O'Neill, now a Senator under whom Beery served in World War I, believes in his old buddy-in-arms when Freeman involves him in the filthy racket, encourages and aids him in his successful fight to round up the gang.

Miss Main buys in Freeman's half-interest in the store and Beery, rather than fill out the endless forms involved in the transaction, reluctantly agrees to a double-harness ceremony. And they leave you laughing or leering, as the case may be.

All of you, may we suggest, should remain for the second feature which is really a topflight feature, "Knickerbocker Holiday," with Nelson Eddy.

Fair Racing Heads Plan For Four 1944 Meetings

By JACK CONWAY

FINAL PLANS for half mile racing at the Massachusetts Fairs were expected to be made at a meeting of representatives of the Marshfield, Brockton, Northampton and Great Barrington Fairs at the Hotel Bancroft, Worcester today . . . The Fair circuit will open at Marshfield on August 29 . . . There will be six days of racing which will carry through Sept. 4 which is Labor Day.

Brockton, Northampton and Great Barrington are perfecting plans for their six-day meetings . . . It is expected 300 to 400 horses will be shipped to New England for the four meetings . . . In view of the expected increase in mutuel betting and the higher cost of maintaining racing stables, there will be larger purses for the horsemen.

Rudy York

This is in line with the policy at the major tracks which have given the horsemen a fair share of the juicy racing melon . . . The management of the Topsfield Fair, which has given some thought to racing, will not have a representative at today's meeting . . . It is unlikely that Topsfield will conduct a fair this year due to labor shortages . . . At some future time Topsfield will decide if it will have running horse races.

Topsfield has a perfect half-mile track and an ideal setting for a Fair running horse meeting . . . It is unlikely, though, that Topsfield will give serious consideration to holding races until the post war period.

The Weymouth Fair is still only in the talking stage as far as racing is concerned . . . One faction wished to conduct six days of Fair racing, while another wanted to hold a regular half-mile meeting on the plan of Pascoag . . . It is unlikely that any new licenses will be granted for race tracks in Massachusetts until the war is won.

PASCOAG WILL conduct a summer and a fall meeting . . . The summer meeting will open on May 20 and run through July 8 . . . The fall meeting will commence as soon as the fall meeting at Narragansett closes in September . . . Pascoag will feature many of the horses that will appear at the fair meetings.

The half-mile tracks give an opportunity to horsemen, who have not done well at the mile tracks, to get even for the season . . . Many of the horses now racing at Narragansett Park and Pimlico will be dropped into spots at the half-mile circuit where they can win races . . . At times some of the thoroughbreds that show at the half-mile tracks graduate into big time racing and make good.

The jockeys at the half-mile tracks have to possess daring as well as skill . . . Some of the turns are sharp, and are reached shortly after the start of races . . . A half-mile track is no place for a jockey with a faint heart . . . The public likes the half-mile tracks . . . It is near to the action . . . When the competition is good, the fans get as excited as when they are watching a $50,000 stake race.

Random Shots at Target

AS IF TIMES were not tough enough, the draft has added further to the worries of the Braves . . . With Butch Nieman, Connie Ryan and Damon Phillips accepted by the Navy, Bob Coleman will soon have to find ways and means to replace these players.

Detroit received a break when the hard hitting Rudy York was classified in 4-F . . . More than 80 per cent of the big league players are in 4-F . . . Government authorities are now frank in admitting they lack legislation which would enable them to force members of the 4-F group to enter vital industries . . . The threat of Army induction for limited service has not been enough to get action.

Many men in 4-F would be a definite burden to the Army . . . This would not be true of ball players, most of whom are in good physical condition, but it would be the case with thousands of civilians who are suffering from various types of illness and physical defects.

U. S. Polo Team Lack Horses

MEXICO CITY, April 28 (AP)—The United States team, captained by Cecil Smith, plays Argentina Sunday in the third game of the international polo tournament here. The U. S. team brought horses from Texas, while the Argentines will ride mounts provided by Mexico.

Manuel Andrada, captain of the Argentine team, said his players were in good shape, but that his team's horses were tired.

"We have only three horses per player." Andrada said, "and we can't play good polo that way. Yesterday I had to play three chukkers on one horse." In that game, Mexico defeated Argentina, 8 to 7.

Tobe Proves Hill Genius

By BILL GRIMES

While Hall of Fame Jim Tobin was relaxing on the Boston bench before he went out to warm up before the second game of the Braves-Giants series last week in the Polo Grounds, a veteran New York baseball writer, who, modestly, admitted that he had been on his bandwagon since "Tob" broke in with the Yankees, came up with a snappy question, "Why don't you pitch every day, Jim? It's no effort for you to pitch."

"What to hell do you want me to do, lose 100 games," was Tobin's comeback.

Maybe that veteran New York scribe is a Hoosier Hot-Shot and is pulling for Bob Coleman to register as a big league manager. But, whether he is or not, Jim Tobin is making him look good. "Tob" let the Giants down that afternoon with three hits but lost a 2 to 1 decision to the boys, who operate under Coogans' Bluff, because Manager Mel Ott tied into a 3 and 2 pitch in the first inning for a home run with Georgie Hausmann aboard.

Last Sunday afternoon, Jim Tobin shut out the Blue Jays of Philadelphia and gave up only one hit.

BACK TO 1916

So, going into yesterday's game with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Mr. Tobin had allowed only four hits in three games. It was a million to one shot that "Tob" was going to lose caste when he faced the "Bums." But, the Tobins have always been unpredictable. At the age of 30 months, Jim Tobin's daughter, Patsy, could call every member of the Braves by his first name, and did, even to distinguishing between the Phils and the Bills.

But, Jim Tobin came into his own yesterday afternoon. He pitched a no-hit-no-run game. Just 29 Dodgers faced him. He walked Paul Waner, the lead off man in the opening inning. Then, he turned back the next 26 Dodgers in one-two-three order. With two down in the 9th, P. Waner drew another pass but Steve Shemo gathered in Dixie Walker's grounder to retire the 27th "Bum."

After the game, Jim Tobin admitted that he was nervous from the 7th inning on. When he went out to the mound for the 9th round, "Tob" said to Connie Ryan, "You take care of the bunts, I'll watch out for the pushes."

LEADS BOTH LEAGUES

Just as soon as the game was over the experts rushed for the "Green Book" to start experting about the last time a no-hitter had been pitched at Braves Field. They discovered that back in 1916, Long Tom Hughes had hurled a no-hitter against the Pirates at the Allston Wigwam.

"Old Ironsides" Jim Tobin has been the most effective pitcher in either major league this season. In 26 innings, "Tob" has made only one bad pitch this year, the "blazer" bail, he tried to sneak by Mel Ott.

Although the Green Book, which is published annually to make writers look like experts, gives the national pastime fine coverage, it doesn't include personalities. For instance, it doesn't bring out the fact that Jim Tobin is one of the most regular fellows in baseball. "Tob" is a "ribber." But, he can take a "rib" and enjoy it just as much as though he was on the receiving end.

As a general rule, ball players like to cut corners financially. But, that does not apply to Jim Tobin. During the three years he went South with the Braves for spring training to Bradenton, Fla.; San Antonio, Tex. and Sanford, Fla., Jim Tobin brought his wife, Agnes, his daughter, Patsy, and his mother-in-law with him. But, instead of hiring an apartment and collecting $8.50 per day from the club, the Tobins lived in the Braves' hotel with Jim the only one in the family getting the free ride. It cost Jim Tobin $13 per day to have his wife, daughter and mother-in-law at camp in 1940-41 and '42.

And, as further proof that Jim Tobin is a regular fellow, when the Braves came North from Sanford two years ago, the gasoline and tire rationing was on. The Tobins had driven East from their home at Oakland, Cal. For two years, they had lived out in Newton during the baseball season. Because of gas and tire restrictions, Mrs. Tobin suggested that they get an apartment near Braves Field.

RED SOX HERE TODAY

"That's out," declared "Old Ironsides." "Your mother is accustomed to being out in the garden all summer. What is she going to do, hang around an apartment? We'll live in Newton, if we have to push that car back to California."

There isn't any pitcher in the game that the players and the press would rather see come up with a no-hit-no-run game than Jim Tobin. Look back in the record book and see how many regular fellows are listed among those who have hurled no-hit games.

There are only two in my book, Walter Johnson and Jim Tobin.

And, by the way, the Red Sox open a three-game series with the Athletics this afternoon at Fenway Park.

Boss Holds Hall-of-Famer's Famed Shirt

Norwood Set for Opener

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Veteran Coach Bennie Murray should be one of the happiest fellows around as he prepares to open Norwood High School's baseball season tomorrow against Natick. The defending state champion outfit will have 10 of its 14 lettermen back from last year—you couldn't ask much more—but still, Coach Murray is not at all satisfied that his club will be back in the state title play for the eighth straight season.

For one of the four veterans who will not be with the team will be Ray Martin, the No. 1 pitcher in the schoolboy ranks who made the near-impossible jump from schoolboys to the big leagues.

And that's just where Coach Murray's problem begins and ends—in the pitching box. Of course, Norwood will have a fair start toward a capable mound staff with Ken Berkland, who'll be handed the starting assignment against Natick, but then Coach Murray will have to dig deep. To date, he has come up with a pair of twirlers in Ed Tamulonis, a right-hander, and Don Holman, a southpaw who looked good with the Legion team.

The pitchers will be aided considerably with Andy Tranavitch behind the plate in the 12-game schedule.

"We've only had about five days of practice and I'm afraid it may tell on us," claims Coach Murray. "I don't think the team looks too hot.

A's, Red Sox Here Today

Joe Cronin, on his return from Washington with the Red Sox today, stated that he believes the Red Sox will begin to show real team play and hitting power starting this p. m. in the opener of the series with the Athletics.

Boss Joe believes that he has a good team which has only been lacking in cohesion as a team due to a lack of spring training. We possess power at the bat, he said, and we also have splendid pitching so that now all we have been lacking is co-ordinated work afield and at the plate. I feel that we are now about to arrive as a well rounded club.

Vic Johnson will hurl for the Hose at Fenway Park today and Joe Christopher will toil for Connie Mack's club.

854 Million Bet at N. E. Race Tracks in 10 Years

By AUSTEN LAKE

My own method of figuring was brewed along the old expense account formula and therefore subject to slight errors one way or another. But the following figures are auditors' figures, duly checked and sworn to, and hence considered reputable. So kindly give me your attention and also hold onto your hats. Because I am about to give you the exact, sum-total of money wagered by our thrifty citizens at all the New England horse and dog tracks since pari-mutuel gambling was lifted out of sin by the voters of New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Massachusetts in that order.

The grand, over-all total is $854,904,805, since 1933 when Rockingham began selling grand illusions at from two to 50 smackers the copy. Narragansett joined the parade in '34 and Massachusetts climbed over the tailboard a year later. So, between then and now, the total is 845 millions-plus, including the $10,007,505 which has gone into 'Gansett's choppers during this infant semester.

National Debt of '16

And that ain't prune pits! In fact, the sum bet at N. E.'s hoss and hound saucers is only a few hundred thousands shy of what the entire nation's debt was in 1915, which was a piddling $1,225,145,568, or just about what it costs to run the present war for three days.

Well, then, Massachusetts, as you will be glad to learn, was no laggard in contributing to this total. The frugal citizens of our state wagered $459,184,917 ever since its dobbin and pooch visionaries reared their country club palaces and invited the customers to dream. I think you will find that is seven times the existing state debt, as of April 1, 1944, or $62,953,105.

In fact, the existing state debt is about one million less than the $63,921,164 which the various tracks and Race Commission skimmed from the total race kitty. So maybe you would like to peer at what occurred to the people's gambling pelf in this state since 1935, to wit and viz:

	Total Handle	To State	To Track
Horses	245,163,658	10,858,490	17,807,456
Dogs	210,308,622	10,617,130	24,031,456
Fairs, etc.	3,712,339	54,530	551,971
Total	459,184,917	21,530,151	42,390,913

This is not to rebuke the customers, or the state, or the tracks. For it's the customers' cash to spend as they please. And the state's cut of 21 millions-plus, was clear profit, except for wages to a flock of inspectors and sundry expenses, and is devoted to the commonwealth in Old Age pensions, roads, et cetera. And don't imagine that the tracks chew of 42 million-odd was velvet either. Because the horse and dog operators paid some 15 millions assorted federal and state taxes, some of which were taxes upon taxes. Also there were fat hunks of wages to hired help, some of whom were the pets of prominent politicians. Then there were race purses and upkeep. So when Suffolk Downs came to count what cash had sifted through, the only thing it could lay a hand to was a few hundred annual thousands gleaned from admissions, programs and concessions.

Dogmen Took Most

Of course, the dog proprietors at Wonderland, Taunton and Massasoit did considerably better because they had considerably less to pay for help and upkeep and considerably more of a chew from the kitty. Thus I would draw attention to the fact that dogmen's share of the nine-year handle was $24,031,456 as against $17,807,486 for the horsemen, which includes the still-born and defunct Agawam track at Springfield.

So I am not preaching about who got what from where. Because one way or 'tuther most of the monies bet and skimmed stayed here, or hereabouts, within the community to be passed from one hand to another, though usually not to the same hands as passed it into the mutuel wringers.

Then what am I talking about? I am talking about how much of the Massachusetts' $459,184,917 ever got back into the masculine pants pockets and feminine purses which brought it originally to the tracks. And I propose to demonstrate that it was very little, indeed, of the original figure.

Because some time ago I recall hearing no less an authority than Mr. Charles Conners, the state racing commissioner and a very solid, personable and honest little gent too, say that about 20 per cent of a race handle is real genuine, spot cash either in bills or coins, carried to the tracks by the clientele. Mr. Conners remarked that the daily handle was always achieved through repetitious feeding of this real, genuine, soft cash through the pari-mutuel wringers until it was swollen to five times its actual size.

Easy to Figure

This seems a little involved for light reading. So to make the problem seem simpler, let us assume that a track's daily handle is $500,000, of which the horse plant would take 10 per cent, or $50,000, or a dog plant would scalp 15 per cent, or $75,000—not to mention one and one-half per cent breakage, which I will omit in my computations so as not to confuse you.

So, if Mr. Conner's theory is correct, the $500,000 handle is actually only one-fifth its published size in genuine cash money, or $100,000, which came in the people's pockets and purses. Soooo, by simple arithmatic, and even I can do this one, if you substract the horse track's chew of $50,000 or the dog track's $75,000 from the original, genuine $100,000, what do you get? Why you get very little of the real genuine, spot cash back into the pockets and purses which brought it to the track. See what I mean?

So now we are ready for the big problem, as to how much of the Massachusetts' bettors money ever came home again. One-fifth of $459,184,917 bet during the last nine years, is $91,836,983 of which, by its auditted confessions, the state, dogs and horses scalped off $63,921,163, or slightly under two-thirds. About one-third came back at any given time, which may be why, in the post mortem of the race gamblers, so few seem to win and so many lose. Do you see what I mean?
